Rink operates, eye impact fees

by GLORIA DAVIS
Lakeland Newspapers

Despite vandals puncturing bubbles in the plastic being laid for two ice skating rinks, one at Osmond park and the other at Williams Park, one rink is operating.

With Mother Nature providing the snow and the cold temperatures, a fourth attempt by the village set for this week might get the rink set up at Williams Park in operation like the one at Osmond.

At the village board meeting on Monday, Trustee Don Amundsen, head of the finance committee and on the committee to work with the schools in considering new school impact fees to be levied on future developments, reported that recommendations from the committee have one bedroom units in multifamily buildings not assessable because they will have no school impact.

Two bedroom apartments are set at $750 and three bedroom units at $3,000, with a $2,250 escrow to be put on every two-bedroom unit.

Single family homes with three or less bedrooms will be assessed at $2,500 and more bedrooms will cost $3,000.

This revision and upgrading of the impact fees was expected to be discussed by the committee and the board on Thursday.

Amundsen added that the schools will set up a two-year escrow account and the total amount of monies will be looked at after the cost of the impact of the developments that contributed have been established.

The board also heard a report from Al Little on the recycling plan discussed at a recycling meeting in Lindenhurst. Little said a possible cooperative recycling plan between Lake Villa, Lindenhurst and Antioch had been discussed.

In other business, the board discussed:
— changing NOW bank accounts used for motor fuel tax, fire safety construction and sewer operation monies be switched to SWEEP accounts at higher interest rates.
— approved having credit cards for department expenses issued by the State Bank of Antioch.

— accepted a bid from Raymond Chevy of $14,247 for new squad car, allowing the cost of picking the car up and nearby service made up for not accepting bid lower by $682.

— set a redevelopment meeting for 7:30 p.m., on Jan. 9.

Incumbent Charlotte Keisgen is seeking another term.

Others that have filed petitions are Robert Boness, Round Lake, Charles Johnston, Round Lake Beach and Larry Leafblad, Highland Lake.

Those who change their mind have until Jan. 18 to withdraw.

County offices on the spring ballot are one-half of the 24-member County Board, sheriff, county clerk, treasurer and regional school superintendent.

A lottery was held Dec. 21 to determine position of first-day filers.

Here are the Democrat (D) and Republican (R) names that will appear on the ballot:

Lake County Sheriff—Incumbent Clinton Grinnell (R) of Mundelein, former Libertyville chief of police, who has held the office for almost three years; and Donald Mason (R) of rural Lake Villa, a one-time sheriff's deputy and now a private investigator.

Lake County Treasurer—Incumbent Jack "Red" Anderson (R) of Gurnee, who has held the office for 12 years and former sheriff candidate Sander Stagman (D) of Highland Park, a tax accountant.

Introducing Adult Mental Health Services.

Change isn't easy at any age. And sometimes dealing with the challenges of growing older can become overwhelming.

To help you get through those tough periods of adjustment, Victory Memorial Hospital has created an innovative new mental health unit for adults of all ages.

Our unit offers two distinctive programs; one for adults, and another—the first of its type in Lake County—for seniors. Both programs follow individualized treatment philosophies. They are based on a holistic approach to patient recovery, promoting self-help and the return to a healthy lifestyle. The home-like atmosphere, and warm, supportive environment, set the stage for programs designed to meet the physical, psychological and spiritual needs of each patient. And the unit's in-hospital setting allows patients access to any of our medical services.

Growing pains don't end with adolescence, but with our help they don't have to go on forever.

Businesses urged to install silent alarms

by DONNA DUNCAN
Lakeland Newspapers

In an effort to combat burglaries, robberies and other crime, Vernon Hills village officials Tuesday approved a resolution urging businesses to install silent alarms. The alarms would be linked with the police department.

The resolution is designed mainly for 24-hour businesses, such as convenience stores and gas stations. The hope is to prevent incidents such as the Nov. 27 murder and armed robbery at a Mobil gas station at Rte. 60 and Mall Dr.

That case is still pending, as two Zion men, Christopher R. Porter, 22 and Donald J. Bartels, 21, remain in custody at Lake County jail. They are charged with first-degree murder, armed violence and armed robbery. They allegedly bludgeoned 46-year-old George W. Wilson, Jr., of Palatine, to death with a claw hammer. However, his body has not been found.

Trustee Jim Heier suggested the staff consider an ordinance requiring businesses to take security measures that would help deal with situations such as the one at Mobil.

Police Chief Gary Kupsak presented a report to the board during a committee of the whole meeting after studying the options available to businesses. He said silent alarms are the most cost-effective method to deter crime. Originally, he asked the board adopt an ordinance requiring businesses to install silent alarms.

However, Village Attorney Adeline Geo-Karis advised against an ordinance, saying the village has cannot force businesses owners to protect their stores.

"I have a qualm to mandate every business to tie up (to the police department). It's like a big brother situation," Geo-Karis said.

She added the village would have a difficult time defending the ordinance if it were ever challenged in court. Instead, she drafted a resolution to encourage businesses to link up with the silent alarm system.

Village Manager Larry Laschen said the village's building code now requires residences to install security devices in multi-family dwellings, such as deadbolt locks and peep holes in apartment buildings.

"So (what) if it doesn't hold up under litigation...I doubt if anyone will fight it," Laschen said.

Attorney Berle Schwartz agreed with Geo-Karis, saying there would be problems with how to apply the rule, such as how would it apply to a bar open until 1 a.m. or a fast food restaurant open until 11 p.m. He noted an official "urging" would achieve the same purpose.

At the village committee of the whole meeting, Kupsak listed three basic security methods available to retailers. They include bulletproof windows, surveillance cameras and silent alarms. The first two would cost a retailer "thousands" of dollars. The silent alarm would cost an average of $100 for the device plus a one-time $300 installation fee. A $15 per month assessment fee may also be charged.

Currently, the police department has 280 lines hooked up on the alarm board, including police, fire and burglaries. But the department has the capacity to include up to 1,000 alarms.

With the silent alarm, an employee would press a button or a floor plate in an emergency, activating an alarm at the police department. Police officers would then respond to the location immediately. The other Mobil station at Rte. 60 and Butterfield Rd. has bullet retardant glass and reinforced attendant's cubicle.

"Predominantly, violent crimes take place in the early morning hours in places with (few employees)," Kupsak said.

He said a robber could always break a bulletproof glass or find a way around a surveillance camera.

"(There's) no security system that can completely eliminate those circumstances if the perpetrators choose to do so. But many security systems can at least delay perpetrators from committing the crime.

"We can give them the illusion that attempting to defeat the security device is not worth the effort. Even if we adopt an ordinance, the security system can be defeated."

After the meeting, Kupsak said the ability to require security systems would be easier for the police department. But he will now provide information to business people on how to tighten crime prevention at their facility.

"We need a more active crime prevention program. I intend to get out to meet with businesses and suggest security to them. We also do security evaluations," Kupsak said.

However, a 7-Eleven store manager said he feels the silent alarm would not necessarily affect his business.

"I can't see how it would help. If I have a gun sticking in my face, I'd rather see him take the money and leave. I don't know what (the gunman) would do if he saw cops pull up," said Bill Harvey, assistant manager, 7-Eleven.

Wins Award

Michelle Smith, a 1989 College of Lake County graduate from Round Lake Beach, was one of two winners of the 1988-89 Dick Durrant Award, given to the Skyway Conference student-athlete(s) with the highest grade point average during the academic year. Smith, who now attends Univ. of Wisconsin at Parkside, was a member of the cross country and women's basketball teams while attending CLC.

Asbestos may be lingering at Dist. 116's Ellis School

Controversy is brewing over a possible asbestos problem at Ellis School in Round Lake Beach.

Resident John Sligting approached the Dist. 116 Board of Education earlier this week regarding the issue and said he was upset with the way the Environmental Protection Agency office in Waukegan handled its inquiry into the matter.

The issue became public when employee Fred Link, a custodian at the school, said the asbestos was removed improperly earlier this year, and that asbestos in the air could cause safety problems for students as well as employees.

Around that time, Link was fired by the district for an unrelated reason, but Sligting said he has other employees of the district who witnessed the asbestos removal but are afraid to say anything for fear of losing their jobs.

Supt. Cliff Houghton said the employees would not be fired if they approached the board and told them what they saw. "It hasn't been the practice of the school board to fire employees for that reason, and it will never will be."

Sligting said the EPA sent an unqualified person out to inspect the school. He said the EPA "brushed the matter off because there was only one complainant (Link) regarding the issue.

"I'm going to keep approaching the board about this matter until something is done about it. My kids go to that school and I want to make sure it's safe," said Sligting.

The board authorized Houghton to talk to the IEPA about sending a qualified person out to inspect the school for asbestos in the air as soon as possible.

Board members encouraged Houghton to contact the IEPA first about the inspection to see if "they would come out and do it at no cost." If not, Houghton was authorized to seek other professional inspection agencies to perform the job.

"Let's get this matter taken care of. We can't worry about what's happened in the past. Let's move forward from here. We have too many other problems to deal with. If there's no asbestos in the air, then everything's okay. If there is, then we'll get it taken care of," said Board President David Adler.

Fence comes down, asks curbs, gutters

by GLORIA DAVIS
Lakeland Newspapers

In a letter to the Antioch Village Board, written four days after he approached the board about a citation he received for having non-conforming fencing on his property in Oakwood Knolls, Daniel Hanrahan told the board that he is declining the board's offer to waive the $200 application fee required for the filing of a variance appeal to the existing village fencing ordinance.

He declined because "my case is not one of hardship but extreme disappointment, and on the basis of the existing ordinance as written, this is not a reasonable justification for a variance."

Hanrahan told the board that his respect and appreciation for the community was being sorely tested and said he would remove the non-conforming sections of fence from his property.

Hanrahan also told the board that he was aware of the ordinance, but was also aware of numerous violations, not only in Oakwood Knolls, but other parts of the community when he put his fencing in.

He said, "The village has knowingly allowed these violations to continue without enforcement and therefore, must share in the responsibility for these unfortunate situations."

He added, "ordinances should provide guidance, not mandate adherence," asking, "Isn't selective enforcement of an ordinance a more prudent and reasonable approach --?"

Hanrahan claims he and other residents that have put up fences that are in violation of the ordinance, did so to enhance their property and protect their privacy, asking if anyone in the village has suffered because of this.

Village Bldg. Insp. Chick Carstensen says that he asked Hanrahan what violations he was speaking of and when the chain link fence around the park by the lake was pointed out, Hanrahan was told that it was a safety fence because of the closeness of the lake.

Carstensen also told Hanrahan that a fence around another piece of property that was pointed out had been in existence long before the ordinance was adopted in 1976.

"Since I've been building inspector all violations that have been reported or sighted have received citations," added

Carstensen.

Hanrahan appeared at Monday's board meeting to request that the village install curbs and gutters in the Knolls.

Hanrahan had previously told the board that, not only that body, but the Oakwood Knolls property Owners' Assn. and children in the school system were harassing his family since he put in a boat dock and other improvements on his property that neighbors objected to.

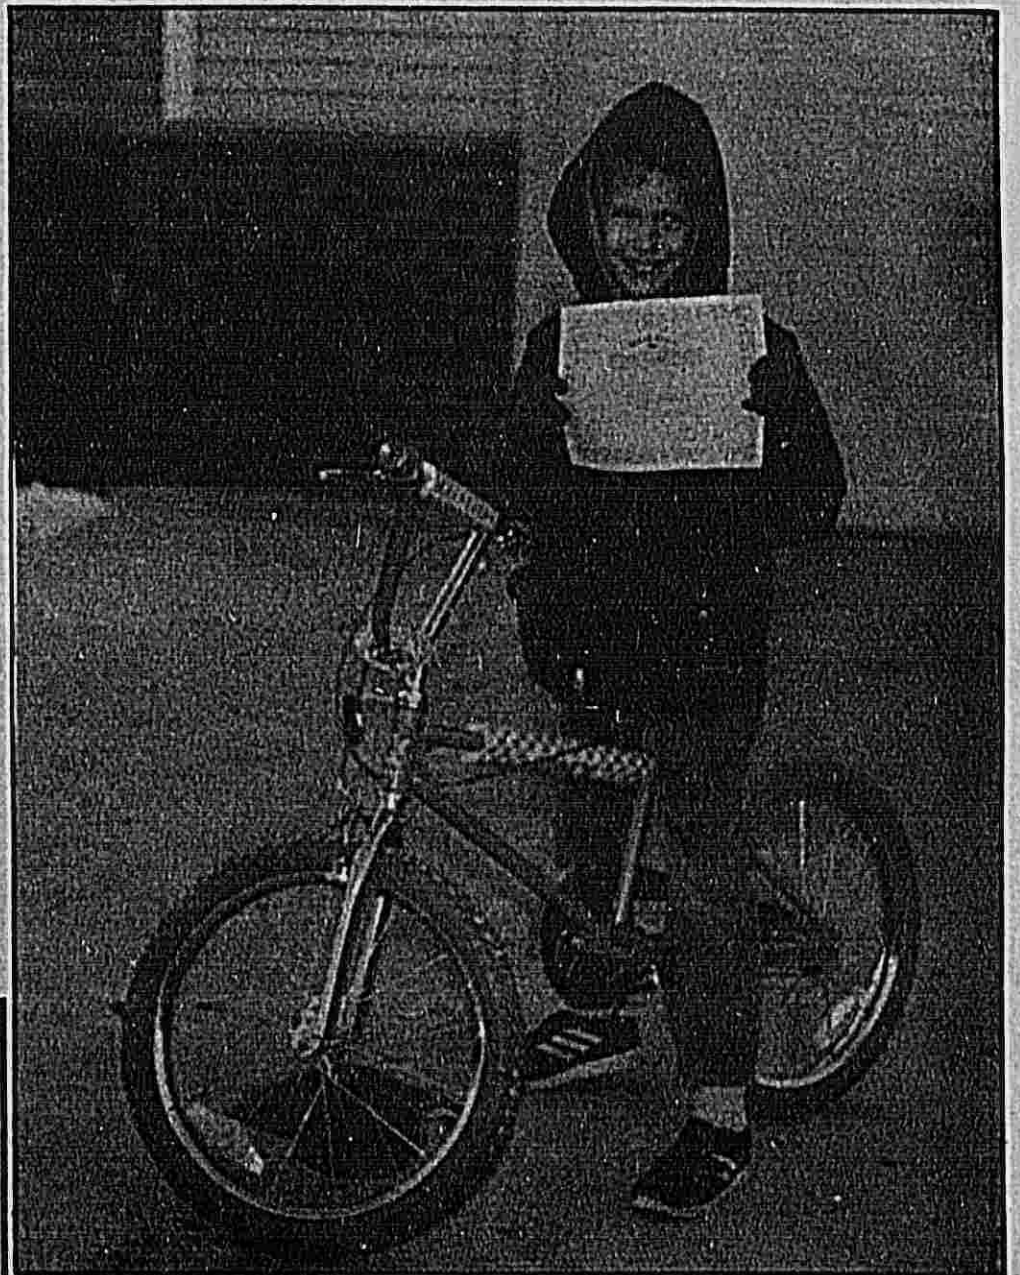

ICC orders crossing lights, gates on Rte 173

Illinois Commerce Commission Chairman Terrence L. Barnich announced that on Dec. 13, the Ill. Commerce Commission entered an order requiring automatic flashing light signals, utilizing 12 inch signal units with gates controlled by motion sensor circuitry be installed at the Illinois Rte. 173 crossing with the track of the Wisconsin Central, Ltd., in Antioch, Lake County.

The cost of the new crossing warning devices is $89,252. The Illinois Dept. of Transportation is bearing 100 percent of the cost of the improvement.

State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis of Zion said: "The improvements at the Illinois Rte. 173 crossing will be a positive step toward improving safety in Antioch."

State Rep. Robert Churchill of Antioch commented: "The Illinois Rte. 173 crossing has been the site of two recent accidents resulting in the deaths of five people. The addition of gates should improve safety for those who cross the track of the Wisconsin Central at this location. I am pleased the parties and the Illinois Commerce Commission resolved the matter promptly."

Parks Dept. sponsors 2 ice skating rinks

by LIZ SCHMEHL
(708)395-5380

I recently received a call from Theresa Weber of the Antioch Parks and Recreation Dept. informing me of some great things the village has in store for all of us this winter. First of all, all of you avid ice skaters get out those skates and sharpen those blades because the village is providing us with two outdoor ice skating rinks this year.

The rink underneath the pavilion at Williams Park is ready now. The park officially opens at 8 a.m. and closes at 10 p.m. You can skate at Williams Park after dark because the pavilion is furnished with lights. For your information, Williams Park is located by the Aqua Center.

The second rink will be opened shortly and is located in Osmond Park. It will be out in the open field, and participants will be permitted to park along the nearby streets. The way to find Osmond Park is to take Lake St. right to Hillendale Dr., to Valley View Ct. The pond is located at the end of Valley View Ct. Have fun, ice skaters! Gosh, if only I had stronger ankles I'd come out and join you.

Theresa also told me the original bath house at the Aqua Center was built in 1956. This original structure was recently torn down, and the new bath facility will be finished by this spring.

Theresa said I missed a very beautiful and sentimental Thanksgiving/Christmas Parade in our "hometown." The ACHS Choir led the parade down Main St. singing beautiful Christmas carols. Then the townspeople and singers surrounded the tree at the village hall and the choir sang "O-Christmas Tree" while Mayor Wilton pulled the switch to light up the tree and officially open the Christmas season in Antioch. There was a lot of beautifully decorated floats in the parade, and Santa arrived in a horse-drawn carriage.

Theresa would like to remind all of the moms in our area, who have two- and three-year-olds, of a new program being offered by the parks department. The program is called "Me, Myself and Mom," and will be held each Friday starting Jan. 5 at the Scout House. The program is from 9:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. and is $20 for the six-week session. The purpose of the program is to introduce the little ones to a pre-school setting with the moms present to oversee and reinforce this learning experience. Contact Theresa Weber at the park's office at (708)395-2160 to make arrangements to register a child.

Great expectations

A "little birdie" told me that Janette and Walt Martens are expecting a new addition to their family in April. I was happy and surprised to hear this. Also, it doesn't seem right that "Tanta Liz" had to rely on a "little birdie" for this happy tidbit. Grandma and Grandpa, Eva and Robert Napier, are very excited over the prospect of becoming grandparents once again. Now, make sure someone calls me when the baby makes his/her way into the world. Congratulations.

Pam and John Cardis are excited over the fact that the time is getting much closer for the February arrival of their new bundle of joy. Pam, remember, you promised to call me in order that I may announce the arrival of the baby to all my readers.

Along these happy lines, Linda Boerman's sister and brother-in-law, Penney and Mickey Temple, are "finally" expecting their second baby sometime this summer. They are very happy to be expectant parents once again, and Penney owes this happy turn of events to the fact that she recently gave all of her baby items to her niece, Michele. However, something tells me that Penney will enjoy every minute shopping for new items for the baby. Congratulations, Penney, Mickey and Auntie Linda, too.

Grass Lake PTO

Now for a special follow-up story concerning the Grass Lake School PTO annual breakfast with Santa and Craft Show. In a nutshell, it was fantastic.

The Lizard, for one, thoroughly enjoyed herself as she visited with many of her past and present friends. Russ Fairchild, if you are reading this column, please count how many names I mention here and see if I at least come close to knowing as many people as you do.

I must give top billing of the day to three brave and 16 baby pictures. A dollar donation brought you the opportunity to try to match the baby pictures with the current pictures. A dollar donation bought you the opportunity to try to match the baby pictures with the current pictures. I assume I got Beth Boerman, Kelly Brausam, Angie Grob and Jenny Santlemmo correct. However, how do you decide which Burke twin picture went with which youngsters who had their ears pierced right there in the school gym. The first mention of bravery goes to pretty little Nicole Schaller, who is in the third grade. Nicole has wanted to do this for a long time and kept backing down. However, after talking to Ethel (one of the Growing Up Well Clowns), she went for the gold and had it done at last. She was so proud of herself, and Fred and Ethel (the clowns) are also very proud of her.

The next earring mention goes to Kelly Brausam of the sixth grade, who had a second hole put in each ear. Last, and most unique earring piercing award goes to Jim Schmehl, my son, also of the sixth grade. Jim had only one ear done (as is the custom for boys), and he looked pleased with himself when the ordeal was over.

I also saw my family doctor, Dennis Thain, of Antioch Clinic, strolling around pushing a baby carriage and checking out all of the various activities. Heck, I didn't know doctors were regular people. I had this urge to say "ahhh" the whole time he was there.

I think my favorite booth was the GLS cheerleading booth. They had 16 recent pictures of themselves post-

Burke twin picture. To this day, I do not recognize Angela Burke from Heather Burke. I then proceeded to take wild guesses on the remaining pictures, and would be shocked to discover I was the winner of the contest.

Ray Liss, principal of GLS, took the opportunity to buy many of his Christmas presents. I have a feeling he is going to have three very happy aunts when Santa arrives. I bumped into Clara Haling and Irene Lehmann browsing at all of the beautiful craft tables. Clara was surprised that I finally differentiated Irene from her twin sister, Alice Waldecker.

Now, for some "green-eyed" mentions of friends who were there flaunting their grandchildren—Sue Anderson, Barb and Lee Marre, Judi Rey and Ed and Ernestine Okrzesik.

Pam Clarke had a lot of beautiful hand painted items on display. She was glad to have Helen Olechny on hand to help her tend her five little Clarkes, and it looked like Helen loved every minute of it.

I couldn't help but notice Judy Fechner kept eyeing the gift items on the "PTO Make Us an Offer" table. I would like to know who purchased the bird in the glass jar. I wanted to buy that for a special remembrance gift for Anthony Przeklasa, superintendent of GLS.

Cheryl Henning and Sue (Lass) Westergaard did an excellent job reading Christmas stories to the little ones. Gary Groh had to leave the festivities a little early as he had an important task waiting for him at the stables. Joanne Fleshmann seemed very pleased with herself as she

Indict Abate in death try

Natale Abate, formerly of Antioch, now of Chicago, has been charged with 10 counts by a federal grand jury.

Abate faces charges of using a facility in interstate commerce with the intent that a murder for hire be committed.

According to the U. S. States Attorney's office in Chicago, Abate is also charged with nine weapons violations including transferring guns he knew would be used for criminal violence, failing to keep proper records as a gun dealer, transferring a weapon with an obliterated serial number to be used in criminal violence and carrying two firearms with criminal violence intent.

Unconfirmed reports say that some of the charges are in connection with an earlier Lake County charge of threatening and harassing an Antioch woman in connection with an "Airplane" pyramid scheme operating in Antioch Twp.

These unconfirmed reports say that the charge of conspiring to hire someone to commit murder is connected with an unnamed Antioch man who was a witness at Abate's trial in Lake County, the result of which he was found not guilty of the threatening and harassment charges.

Federal sources refused comment on the Antioch Airplane scheme connections.

Abate has been in federal custody since November and is expected to be arraigned on the 10 federal charges within a week.

Lizard

announced she is now the proud owner of her administrative certificate. Congratulations, Joanne, I know how hard you worked to accomplish this.

My eldest daughter, Donna Schmehl, brought my son Jim in for breakfast, and I naturally had fun introducing her to a lot of my friends. Of course, I was only lucky enough to have one of my "three" pretty daughters present to show off. I had to put up with Darlene Olenick being surrounded by her "three" gorgeous daughters—Tricia, Deanna and Missy. I know she was slightly jealous when she spotted my son, Jim, looking so well groomed. She especially loved his white skateboarding cap with the frayed hole in it. Eat your heart out, Darlene, I know you wish you had a son running around town dressed like a war orphan with a pierced ear!

Sue Anderson, secretary of GLS, seemed especially proud as she strutted around with her daughters, Bonnie, Cheryl and Karen. Come to think of it, Marlene Olsen seemed to have a contented look on her face because her daughters, Cindy, Debbie and "little" Marlene were present and, also, has her four grandchildren—Nicole and Christopher Schaller and Lauren and Christine Foerster.

Pat and Bernie Olzewski of P&B Ceramics had their usual display of beautiful items on sale. I was very glad to see Carol Stengel and was surprised to learn we had so much in common. Remember, Carol, you promised to call to discuss our shared interests, and I'll be waiting to compare notes.

Well, that is about all of the details I can remember. However, I'd like to say hello to the following other people I recall seeing there—Shirley and Paul Kitto, Shahnaz Hansen, Julie Groh, Dave and Linda Jones, John and Linda Boerman, Scott and Cindy Marquart, Marie and Ray Brausam, Mary Franzen, John Fleischmann, Sharon Jones, Pat Santicemmo, Robin Gwinn, Jim Foerster, John and Pam Cardis, Bonnie Dembinski, Pam Izenstark, Debbie and Walter Mozal, Millie and Cathy Morenz, Orville and Marilyn Knutson, Phyllis (Bev) Wagner, Fred the Clown, Ethel the Clown and Santa Claus. Sorry if I missed anyone. Hope you all have a very merry Christmas and a happy new year.

Mementos given

I started this column off last year with a detailed account of the fun we had at our yearly ornament exchange. This year's gala affair was held at the beautiful home of Rick and Shahnaz Hansen. Shahnaz was truly a gracious hostess.

The only highlight of the evening I will relate to you is about all of the "unique," hand-made 25-year-old ornaments given to everyone (under the cover of a gift of love being sent from Ceil Bennett, of Georgia). The varying looks of astonishment on each and every face as they opened the monstrous ornaments is truly unforgettable.

The ornaments were planted by yours truly—dug up in my attic of "unwanted," "outdated" items. All I can say is I had more fun giving them away than

I did making them 25 years ago. Beware, people, I wonder what little attic items I will dig up for all of you next year?

Birthday wishes

An extra special happy birthday wish to an extra special person is extended by the Lizard and friends for the Dec. 22 birthday of Marie (Ethel) Brausam. Happy birthday, Ethel—I mean, Marie. Etc., etc. . .

I would like to take a moment to personally thank

Russ Fairchild of Antioch for the beautiful Christmas card he sent to me simply because I mentioned his talented writings in my column. Thanks, Russ, the card was great and the lettering was beautiful. How would you like the job of addressing all my personal mail from now on? I hope your Christmas is a happy one, and I truly look forward to your next column in our "hometown" paper.

Allen top student

Jenny Allen has been selected by the administration to be honored as the Student of the Month at Antioch High School for her performance in the physical fitness unit in physical education.

Allen, a 13 year old sophomore, is the youngest in her class, which averages 15 years of age. She had three out of four of the highest scores in the sophomore class and placed second in the mile run. She did more pull-ups (11) than any other student in the class, male athletes included.

She was an A student in the Nickerball and track units, plays on the school volleyball team, is a member of the student council and was selected as the runner-up in the Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation Seminar competition.

ACHS to fete 8th grade

On Tuesday, Jan. 9, 1990, Antioch Community High School will present a curriculum night for current eighth grade students planning to enter ACHS in the fall for 1990 and their parents. The program will begin at 7 p.m. and conclude at approximately 9:15 p.m.

Students and parents will have an opportunity to meet the faculty and be informed regarding: curriculum offerings, course content and expectations. In certain selected areas it will be possible to view demonstrations of classroom activities, while at the same time participating in a self-guided tour of the school facilities.

This program will assist the current eighth grade class in becoming familiar with ACHS and help them to determine the elective course they wish to enroll in for the 1990-91 academic year. No enrollment will take place the night of January 9. Students will be informed of the enrollment dates scheduled for February through their elementary and junior high teachers.

Parents who feel that they might be unable to attend due to having younger children in need of babysitting, may take advantage of the babysitting services which will be available through the home economics department.

Members of the ACHS Child Care class will greet parents and younger children at the main doors that evening and escort the children to the child care facilities located on the second floor.

Faculty members will supervise the activities. Older children, who may not care to entertain themselves with the toys available, will also be supervised by the staff and arrangements will be made to see that they have a pleasant evening also. The home economics staff will also serve refreshments throughout the evening.

Parents with questions regarding this evening should contact Tim Noonan, guidance department chairman during the school day at (708)395-1421, ext. 250.

Antioch Twp. were present Monday at a meeting arranged by Lindenhurst Trustee Tom Berger to hear a presentation by Waste Management and to show an initial interest in handling the pick up of recyclable items and disposal of yard waste in a joint venture.

Boil order

LAKE VILLA—Residents in the Village of Lake Villa were forced to boil drinking water after a series of water main breaks occurred this weekend along Grand Ave. in that village. The first three breaks happened Friday and had a crew of five village employees and five hired employees as well as village board volunteers working long hours all weekend. When all was almost back to normal, a fourth break occurred a few feet down the road. Areas on the eastern border of the village were left without water while the remainder of the village was switched to water from Allendale Home. Supt. of Streets Glenn McCollum said he's hoping last weekend's break will take the place of the one that usually comes on Christmas Eve. He's had to fix water main breaks on Christmas Eve five out of the seven years he's worked for Lake Villa and some of those breaks were accompanied by a snow storm he had to clean up after.

OK tax hike try

GRAYSLAKE—Grayslake Dist. 46 voters will be asked March 20 to consider a referendum. The Dist. 46 Board of Education voted to seek the same amount which was defeated in the November effort by 32 votes. The district will be seeking a total $5.8 million bond issue which will increase the tax rate some 15 percent. The board discussed how the word will get to the public at a Monday meeting. The grassroots citizens group which will be organizing the vote drive will be the "Strive For Excellence" committee.

Stores get warning

LAKE ZURICH—Lake Zurich officials are warning businesses that sell liquor to be on their best behavior in watching for minors trying to purchase alcohol during the holidays, particularly New Year's Eve. Already, Shoreline Action Liquors on Main St. in Lake Zurich has been slapped with a one day suspension for repeatedly violating state statutes. Shoreline will have its liquor license suspended on Jan. 7 for selling alcohol to minors twice within the last three months.

Want Preder

LINDENHURST—The Lindenhurst Village Board received a letter from all nine officers in their village's police department who wanted to make their belief known that acting police chief, Art Preder, should be appointed chief of the Lindenhurst Police Dept. on a full-time basis. The letter, which was read to the board during a committee meeting by Ofc. Andy Jones, says that the morale among the officers has never been higher since Preder, who has been with the department 19 years, filled the empty chief spot left by Chief Gary Kupsak. "Officers no longer dread coming to work and are now actually happy to work in the village," the letter said. Mayor Robert Ratch, who has the power of appointing the new chief, has set up two committees to select one candidate from the 100 applications received. He said he respects the fact that the officers like Preder, but will keep politics and popularity out of the decision and will appoint the person recommended by the committee of three former and present police chiefs from other municipalities. Last week, the board received a petition signed by 100 residents and business owners who also recommended Preder for the chief position.

Radium in water

MUNDELEIN—High levels of radium found in the public water supply have been confirmed in yearlong tests completed late last month. This will put Mundelein on the state Environmental Protection Agency "restricted" status along with some 150 other communities. No extension of water mains to new subdivisions can be made without a state-approved variation. The village will immediately apply for the variation, noting it will begin receiving water from Lake Michigan in the spring of 1992. The radium—which varies from 9.2 to 11.6 pico curies per liter instead of the state allowed 5—is not regarded as a hazard. Radium occurs naturally in the ground water supply.

Soccer field near

LIBERTYVILLE—Plans by the Greater Libertyville Soccer Assn. for a 14 to 22-field soccer complex on 50 acres of township open space land are moving ahead. Preliminary plans for the complex are expected in February followed by engineering in March and an analysis by a fund-raising firm to see if the $1.5 million to $2.1 million cost of the project can be raised. Village boards and residents of adjoining Vernon Hills, Green Oaks and Mundelein will also be contacted because players come from those communities.

Talks repairs

GURNEE—Frustrated Pembroke Pines homeowners received a measure of satisfaction Monday night in their campaign to hasten repair work in the subdivision, located off Rte. 132 across from Great America. Village Admin. James Hayner reported that progress on repair lists submitted by homeowners seven weeks ago has been less than satisfactory. After hearing statements by angry residents, Gurnee Mayor Dick Welton said, "we still continue to have a problem here and there is not going to be any progress on any of the other things that the company is requesting until we can satisfy these people." Welton expressed the growing impatience of the board, in the seriousness of the village's commitment to resolving the situation. "It is getting to the point where this isn't going to be a friendly little thing anymore," Welton said.

Village rinks

ANTIOCH—The Village of Antioch's Parks and Recreation Dept. has already set up an ice skating rink in Osmond Park. Efforts to set up another one in Williams Park, at the Lions Club Pavilion, were thwarted three times by vandalism but the village was expected to get the rink in skating condition by this weekend.

Seeks new facility

LINCOLNSHIRE—Village officials are optimistic a new village hall and police station will be built within the next two years. The village is currently involved in condemnation proceedings to acquire a 10.8 parcel of land at Rte. 22 and Olde Half Day Rd. Officials offered to purchase the land from the owner, Dr. Morris Bernstein, but he refused and filed a lawsuit against the village. The lawsuit was overruled two weeks ago by a Lake County judge. This will be the first time the village will have its own administrative facility. The village currently leases space at the Backyard Mall at Olde Half Day Rd. In addition, police department facility on Londonderry is "inadequate," officials said, with no room for prisoners or storage. The site will be a focal point of the community, said Village Manager David Limardi. Trustee Char Schwan said "the time is right" for a new facility because of projected growth and having enough money. A trial date for the condemnation has been set for February, where a jury will set the purchase price.

Hotel for Holiday Park

FOX LAKE—The popular Holiday Park winter and summer complex near here is seeking annexation for 210 single-family homes, 120 townhomes, a seven-acre commercial area fronting Rte. 134 and a 12-story, 192-room hotel overlooking Wooster Lake. This is the final season for the popular ski hill, which has catered to thousands from the Chicagoland area with its winter and summer facilities. The developer is asking the village to form a tax incremental financing district to pay for sewer and water mains to the development.

Harvester pact

GRAYSLAKE—The Village of Grayslake, in cooperation with the Grayslake Community Park Dist., will be investing up to $10,000 for a weed harvesting program on Grays Lake. The village board Monday approved the expenditure with both agencies contributing 50 percent. The project will be done by a private contractor. Originally, plans called for Third Lake, Grayslake Park Dist., village of Grayslake and Highland Lake Homeowners Assn. to participate in an intergovernmental agreement and share the cost of the $70,000 weed harvester.

Graham bows out of politics after 20 years

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

After 20 years on the Lake County political scene, F.T. "Mike" Graham has called it quits. He did it by not filing before the Dec. 18 deadline as a candidate for re-election as Dist. 5 County Board member and Libertyville Twp. Republican precinct committeeman.

He gave several reasons for his decision.

"First, my opponents have a reported $150,000 war chest targeted for my defeat," the open space advocate said. "I would have been outspent 10 or 15 to 1."

"Second, this term is only for two years, so that means running again in 1992," she said about reapportionment of the board as a result of the 1990 census. "I don't know if spending all the money for possible re-election would be worth it."

He also remarked about the "brutal" treatment he and his family have received the past eight months as the result of a probe into his role as both a County Board member and Libertyville Twp. supervisor. He said much of this unfair treatment came at the hands of the news media. Charges he tried to influence the vote of a Libertyville village trustee and asked township general assistance recipients to sign his nomination papers were called "ludicrous" by him. Formal charges are yet to be filed in what Graham calls "a politically motivated attempt to embarrass me."

Graham served 20 years as Libertyville Twp. supervisor until last March and will have 16 years as a County Board member when his term ends next December. He called the March campaign that cost him his supervisor's job the most costly in Lake County township election history. He said opponents spent $50,000 or $9.50 per vote to oust him.

Graham said he will not back any candidate in the March primary to select his successor. Candidates are Graham's running mate of four years ago, Carol Calabrese of Libertyville, Libertyville Trustee Donald Coulson, former County Board member Robert Depke of Warren Twp. and Vernon Hills Trustee Pam Newton.

"If I were to get involved in a campaign it would be my own," Graham said.

"But I will tell you this," he added. "Calabrese has great potential. She has all the right instincts," he said of her open-space views that are similar to his own.

"Coulson is yet to prove to be the open-space person he says he is," Graham continued. "He's got to take a stand. The proof is in the pudding," he said about the man who talks about open space, but has yet to vote or act on such programs in his nine months as a village trustee.

"Depke is not open space, but pro development," Graham said about his longtime foe from the neighboring Warren Twp. "The same is true of Newton. I can only hope the public makes the right choice," Graham said of the March 20 primary election.

"It is sad to think money will buy campaigns, but that is what will happen this time unless the public is diligent," said the man who had that happen to him last March.

Looking back on his career, Graham said his proudest achievements have come in the open-space area. "When I took township office in 1969 we had 95 acres of open space," he said. It was through his efforts the first township open space program in Illinois history became reality in 1975. Today, he said, the township has 4,000 open-space acres in hand or in the process of being acquired.

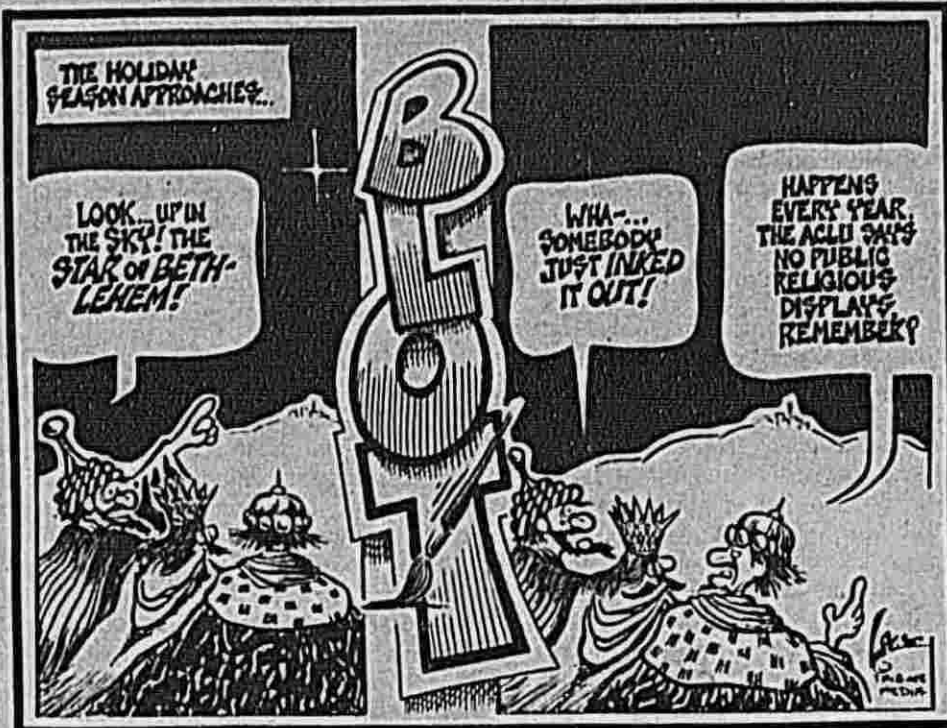

On the county level, Graham noted the Forest Preserve Dist. had 3,000 acres when he became a County Board member in 1972. "Today we have 15,000 acres in hand and another 5,000 acres in the pipeline," he said.

Graham is confident the history book of Lake County will look back and give high marks of accomplishment to him and fellow County Board members Norman Geary of Grayslake and John Balen of Waukegan. This will happen, Graham said, because of they "stopped the '60s and '70s practice of allowing zoning to be for sale," their push for more open space land and their labels as "mavericks" opposed to the hard-line Republicans on the board.

Lakemoor going alone

Dist. 6 County Board Rep. Roberta O'Reilly of Long Grove couldn't have been more correct with the observation that the proposed Volo-Lakemoor regional shopping center will "set the tone" for western Lake County and eastern McHenry County for years to come.

Particularly along the Rte. 12 corridor of west Lake County, efforts of a Sears Roebuck & Co. affiliate to gain approval for a huge retail hub at Rtes. 12, 120 and Gilmer Rd. containing one million square feet has set shock waves through the planning offices of the villages of Lake Zurich, Wauconda and Fox Lake. When a big player like Sears bursts on the scene, retail needs and potential for miles around will be gauged against the impact of the Volo-Lakemoor center.

With both the county and local communities getting negative vibes from the planned center expected to cost $89 million, the position of County Board Dist. 4 Rep. Charlotte Kiesgen of Fox Lake is all the more curious. Kiesgen unsuccessfully tried to get the Lake County Board to back off on a vote opposing mall plans, stating nebulously, "We could get a few more flies with some honey than with vinegar." In the end, the board voted 14 to 6 to oppose the project being orchestrated through the tiny, but expansionist-minded Village of Lakemoor, but offering planning staff help free of charge.

Acting Lakemoor Mayor Charles Godt reacted to the Lake County offer with a curt, "Thank you, no!"

From a Lake County perspective, the Volo-Lakemoor project is rankling because the impetus and sanctions are coming from outside the county where Lake County officials and local municipal leaders have no jurisdiction or political leverage. County Board Dist. 6 Rep. John Reindl of rural Mundelein, chairman of the county board's planning and zoning committee, considers the impact of the Rte. 12 regional center as "horrendous." Reindl further views the negative ripple effect as a "unique situation where a large concern is taking advantage of a small village." Reindl probably is correct, but little Lakemoor doesn't think it is being put upon.

From a planning and zoning perspective, Lake County is getting its tail yanked and there doesn't seem to be anything anyone can do about it.

Young airman facing bleak Yule season

by BILL SCHROEDER

Not everyone is excited about the holidays and experiencing the joys of the season of good will toward men.

Harry Giovanni, 22, has been reduced to "hanger banger" duty in the Air Force and is facing court martial and a dishonorable discharge after Jan. 1 over what his mother claims are "trumped up drug charges by over zealous personnel out to prove that military higher ups are paying attention to President Bush's 'War on Drugs' speech."

Motivated by patriotism and a desire to advance himself, the Johnsbury High School graduate went on active duty June 1, 1988, and quickly established himself with special forces training and as a honors graduate from technical school at Lowrey Air Force Base, Denver. He won a security clearance and happily settled down to duty with a ground support post for B-52 bombers.

A bright future in the armed forces and hopes of GI bill college started unraveling when Harry ran into a high school buddy at Carswell Air Force Base, Ft. Worth, Tx., where both were assigned. Air Force and civilian authorities pulled a drug bust at the buddy's apartment. Harry was not present so he wasn't arrested or charged. A week later Giovanni was told of his "implication," apparently on information obtained from fellow airmen. His security clearance was revoked and he was reassigned janitorial duties despite the fact that he was not charged with any offense. Giovanni asked to submit to a urinalysis, but was told that it wasn't necessary.

Giovanni relaxed four weeks later when Air Force officials informed him that the charges were dropped and he began piecing together strands of his life, including plans to be married.

Another month went by---about the time of the president's anti-drug speech---and Giovanni was picked up and held in custody for five days on the grounds that he had threatened his buddy's life. The friend later recanted, but this time formal charges were brought. A week before Thanksgiving Harry officially was charged with use of two amphetamines.

Sue Giovanni, a broadcast media sales representative, said the military has built a hard-nosed case against her son. "He can't defend himself." She has hired an expensive civilian attorney to clear her son because his assigned military legal counsel advised him to admit to a lesser offense and get off with a light sentence. Harry admitted that he thought seriously of copping a plea, but finally decided against it "because I haven't done anything wrong."

On advice of counsel, Harry's mother is telling his story to political and media contacts to arouse public interest. "I know I sound like a protective mother, but I believe my son. He's innocent. His civil rights are being violated. He's soured on the Air Force. The real ironic thing is that the Air Force is abusing a guy who's dedicated, committed and loves the military---just the type of young people our country should have in the armed forces."

Mrs. Giovanni called the latter point the saddest thing of all.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY—Our ever shrinking household is decked out for the holiday's for the return of married offspring and their spouses. Looks like Christmas may be a three-day event, as they return at different times. Bob brought "Thedog," the Sigma Chi house dog at Purdue University, home to enliven the holidays. Everyone enjoys the lively little mixed shelly except K.C. who is having a calfit over the intruder. All of us wish you a very Merry Christmas.

Impact fee case advances Editor:

The subject of impact fees, or developer payments to cover the cost of expanding services, is gaining steam. The Round Lake area communities have joined in funding a study. Gurnee is posturing toward fees for virtually all service districts. Carol Stream and Bartlett have in place ordinances which ensure proper funding for service expansions related directly to development. Even so, some communities in northern Lake County are dragging their feet. Why do they hesitate to protect their residents?

The proponents of impact fees seek simply to have development pay its own way. The cost of expanding all necessary service districts is part of development. The current taxing program already burdens property owners with over 70 percent of school operation costs. To add the costs of school expansions made necessary by development, on existing property owners, will result in a tax revolt and damage further the ability to offer a quality education to our children.

Consider that some schools are so financially distressed that the impact fees being collected, allegedly for school expansion, are somehow being used to pay teacher salaries and operating expenses, thusly depleting the already inadequate expansion fund. The only alternative left the school is the bond issue and the lofty tax increases which follow. Many schools are now being repeatedly turned down when seeking tax increases by way of public referendum. The result is deterioration of an already tenuous educational program.

School officials are encouraged to take a stand now before it is too late. They know very well the cost of both education and school expansions.

The business community is advised to consider that while developers hail themselves as bringing jobs and tax base, the truth is that some are but fair weather friends, when the land to develop is gone, most developers will disappear. The so-called tax base becomes a tax liability. The jobs they bring are temporary. The effects of unwise and irresponsible development are permanent.

Whether you rent or own, you pay, take a moment to call to write your school and local government officials to voice your concern now. Until the legal aspects of impact fees are decided, all development should be looked at carefully. Perhaps a development moratorium should be encouraged until the impact fee issue is formally resolved. Developer interests are being heard. Shouldn't yours be heard, also?

Going for high density Editor:

After attending most of the three Village of Gurnee hearings regarding the proposed change in zoning requested by Lexington Developers from R-1 to a combination of R-5, R-4 and R-3, I was most disturbed by the seeming lack of interest by the village board and the developers in the natural resource opinion from the Lake County Soil and Water Dist.

This opinion paper by experts in the fields of conservation, erosion and water pollution highlighted many major flaws in the Lexington development, as submitted. These include lack of a soil erosion plan, the destruction of 70 acres of prime hardwoods, the probable death of the designated wetlands due to poorly planned stormwater measures, and the probable increased flooding and well contamination to affect neighboring communities.

I must applaud the Lake County Board's attempt to work with Mayor Welton prior to rezoning. Chairman Norman Geary's letter to Mayor Welton expressed community concerns perfectly. On the other hand, when Mayor Welton criticized

Politically Speaking

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

Either candidates for election in the March primary are getting lazy or their popularity is waning. This observation is made based on the number of signatures obtained on nominating papers for the spring primary. In past years the more signatures the merrier. This was a way to boost the candidate's popularity and visibility before election day. The names also became a built-in mailing list for the campaign.

Until the last election this was practiced religiously, by even the neophyte candidates.

Counting the number of signatures on petitions filed so far this year turns up something strange. Candidates have not bothered to gather much more than the required number of signatures.

To run for the County Board, Democrats must have had anywhere from 30 to 80, depending upon the township, and Republicans had to get 30 to 136. The sheriff needed 578 if a Republican and 321 if a Democrat.

Incumbent Sheriff Clinton Grinnell is from the old school. He filed papers with 1,850 names.

County Board filers and signers of their papers were Pam Newton of Vernon Hills, 446; Matthew Miholic of Lake Bluff, 405; Charlotte Kiesgen of Fox Lake, 398; Robert Grever of Lake Zurich, 325; Carol Calabrese of Libertyville, 318; Bruce Hansen of Lake Zurich, 237; James LaBelle of Zion, 106; and Robert Boness of Round Lake Beach, 106.

Primary day will show who is most popular, signers or not.

One lucky guy is Robert Boness. The resident of Round Lake Beach wants to be the next County Board member for Dist. 4. The job he wants is held by the retiring Norman Geary.

Boness and Charlotte Kiesgen of Fox Lake were the only two persons to file nominating petitions on the first day. In what is expected to be a crowded field, he had a 50/50 chance of winning the top spot in a lottery for simultaneous first-hour filers. Other candidates in the crowded field are listed on the ballot in the order of filing.

Luck is the story of Boness' rise in the world of politics. After 12 years as a coach and officer in the Avon Twp. Youth Baseball Assn., he has become rather well known. That helped him almost pull an upset over long-time incumbent Mayor Carl Schrimpf last spring. Boness fell some 47 votes short.

Boness doesn't mind being called 'Baseball Bob.' "Everyone calls me that," he said of the moniker he earned for eating, sleeping and breathing baseball until being bitten by the political bug.

Running hard for sheriff of Lake County in the spring primary is Don Mason. The private eye from Lake Villa Twp. is making a third try for the job. In 1986 he lost to Robert "Mickey" Babcox. The next time, his nomination papers were disqualified. This time he is running as a Republican, the same ticket as incumbent Clinton Grinnell.

The one-time deputy sheriff isn't pulling any punches. He is leveling charges all over the place. One of his favorite themes is so-called politics in the sheriff's office. Allegations to support his claim include:

1. "Clinton Grinnell sent a letter to all sheriff's deputies soliciting their attendance at his political fund raiser held Aug. 27.15 deputies participated along with marked and unmarked squad cars. (Deputy sheriff) Willie Smith was observed helping serve food. The complimentary tickets sent to the deputies were paid for by the Committee to Re-elect Grinnell for Sheriff." (Not true! What sheriff's deputies do on their own time is their business.)

2. "Frank Winans, while on duty in his appointed capacity (as a sheriff's deputy) was reported as having attempted to coerce a fellow deputy sheriff into signing one of Grinnell's petitions in the court house."

3. "...the secret promotion of Willie Smith to the rank of captain while on leave of absence as an deputy sheriff. ... he still remains deputy sheriff, raising the question of the need for another captain in the department in the first place." (Not true! The promotion was made with the full approval of the Merit Commission.)

4. "...Willie Smith obtained employment for his brother after bringing him in from out of state and now has in his possession a certified deputy card and star not approved by the Merit Commission." (Not true! The appointment of the jail technician requires no residency and was made by former Sheriff Babcox.)

Not so lucky in politics is Bob Collins. No, this isn't the Bob Collins of WGN radio fame. This one is the Wauconda Twp. Republican Precinct committeeman by the same name.

He was going to muddy the waters in the Dist. 6 County Board race by running for one of two vacancies on the spring ballot. Collins made noises and showed his face at the right political places looking every bit like a full-fledged candidate.

At one of these occasions I suggested to Collins his candidacy was not for real, but only to draw votes away from others. He didn't deny that.

"Even if elected I would only serve three years," he said of the four-year office paying $17,000 annually. "By that time I will either move to Red Lake, Ontario, (where he has an infrequently-used summer home), Florida (where he has been offered a deputy sheriff's job) or Germany (where he met his wife six years ago)."

"Homeowners in Lake County are mad, damn mad," says Democratic treasurer candidate Sander Stagman of Highland Park. He wants to succeed Republican Jack "Red" Anderson in that office.

What are people mad about? Taxes! Stagman said. He's especially mad about his own.

"In the last eight years my real estate tax bill has gone up more than 33-1/3 percent," he said.

"Look around your neighborhood. How many For Sale signs do you see? How long have they been up? Rising real estate taxes hurt everyone—when you buy, when you sell and, above all, in day-to-day living," the tax accountant says.

"How high can taxes go?" he asks. "Will real estate taxes cost more than my mortgage?"

He's calling for a three-year freeze on property taxes. He also wants a referendum on this effect on the November 1990 ballot.

"My opponent feels the job of treasurer begins and ends with collecting and distributing county funds," Stagman continues. "This view does not reflect the true importance this office holds for the taxpayer."

Surprise! No matter what the man from Highland Park says, the treasurer can't change his tax bill any more than he can do so for yours or mine. The treasurer is a banker, who collects, invests and distributes tax monies, not levies them.

Flash! Charles Johnston is changing his name. The resident of Round Lake Beach is doing it for the March primary where he is a candidate in the Dist. 4 County Board race.

Johnston has more than a little competition. But if there is one thing the one-time newspaper and radio reporter turned PR-man has learned it is how to gain the edge.

By lengthening his name to Charles "Charlie" Johnston, it will extend beyond all others on the Dist. 4 part of the ballot. That is good for a few extra votes, but not quite as good as being No. 1 or last.

One of the Chicago newspapers is on the case of the Round Lake Sanitary Dist. That is the taxing body for the Round Lake area that hasn't pumped an ounce of sewerage since 1980. This happened when the Fox Lake regional plant began operation in the late '70s.

Still, the district continues to spend money. It is sitting on something like $300,000 in taxpayer money collected in past years, said the Chicago Sun-Times in a front-page story last week. The district paid $40,000 in attorney's fees (to Rudy Magna Jr., son of district big wig and one-time Round Lake Mayor Rudy Magna) and $2,000 annually to six trustees. The board likes the idea of being a watchdog for the county sewer agency.

This is the same public body County Board Chairman Norman Geary has been trying for several years to dissolve. But he's running into lots of resistance. Will he succeed before retiring from office next December?

Helping the needy

Grayslake Area Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Avon Twp. and Waste Management of Lake County all teamed efforts to assist the Lakes Area Food Pantry with a donation. Avon Twp. Supv. Russ Christian collected canned goods left out by homeowners on recycling day in Grayslake. Chamber President Ken Idstein presents Christian with $200 check for food pantry. county projects I felt that he was only somewhat justified. While it is true that previous developments have been approved with inadequate impact fees, I found the comparison between the Lexington development and the combined Brookside, Mill Creek Crossing and Hunt Club Farms ridiculous.

Lexington proposes to have 12.5 percent open space, 20 acres of commercial, and 3 and 1/2 units per acre if figured with wetlands and commercial as part of the formula, but over 4 units per acre if calculated without wetland and commercial property. The other three developments have a total of 33 percent open space, 12 acres of commercial, and either 2.4 acres per unit with open space and commercial included, or 1.6 acres per unit without inclusions.

The Lexington development will probably bring many more students to the local schools than are being estimated, whereas the other three are currently bringing one-tenth the number estimated. The obvious reason being that Lexington wants to market to young buyers, whereas the others are selling mostly to buyers over 40.

Equally worrisome are the Zale development plans already at the Village Hall of Gurnee. These promise to be even denser than those of Lexington. Will voters just get tired of attending board meetings and pointing out problems, only to be ignored? It is a shame that the Village Board of Gurnee chooses to encourage only high density housing.

Everyone should be aware that both Zale and Lexington are involved in lawsuits in McHenry County, due to poor erosion planning.

Winter heating bills seen rising this year

by ROBERT BURNS

Heating your home with oil or natural gas is likely to cost more this winter than last, but supplies should be adequate, industry and government officials say.

A one-month stretch of unusually cold weather in certain regions could, however, trigger some localized shortages of natural gas to industrial and other non-residential users such as schools and businesses, the officials said in interviews.

Supplies of heating oil, used mainly in the Northeast, are not in doubt, although prices are expected to be at least a few cents a gallon higher than last winter.

The projected rise in heating oil prices is linked to higher prices for the petroleum from which the fuel is made. Natural gas prices, which currently are lower than a year ago, are expected to increase as demand rises and local distribution companies pass along a projected small increase in their own costs.

The government estimates that retail heating oil prices will average about 90 cents a gallon this winter, compared with about 82 cents a gallon a year earlier. Prices usually vary across regions, depending on weather patterns and other factors.

About 12 million American homes burn oil for heat, and an additional 48 million heat with natural gas.

Because gas distribution companies are getting more of their supply on the spot, or non-contract, market and less from the traditional pipeline contract system, price trends and the reliability of supplies are getting harder to foresee, analysts say.

Paul Taylor, a vice president at Anadarko Petroleum Corp., a Houston-based gas producer, said the number of companies forced to temporarily curtail gas shipments to their customers has been growing in recent years. Cutbacks were imposed in parts of California and Texas on the coldest days two years ago, and last winter Oregon, Washington, New Mexico, Texas and California were affected, he said.

"We look at that as evidence of a growing trend: On the coldest winter days there just is not enough to meet everyone's demands."

he said, adding that the main problem is a seasonal bottleneck in some pipeline systems.

Taylor noted that supply cutbacks are imposed on industrial users first and have not yet affected residential users. Nor are they likely to this winter, he said.

In a sign that the industry itself is becoming more concerned about its capability to deliver adequate supplies of natural gas, marketers are starting to move away from cheaper month-to-month spot market purchases to the more dependable, yet more expensive — long-term supply contracts, said Kenneth Randolph, senior vice president and general counsel of the Natural Gas Clearinghouse.

"There's still that possibility of running short of gas, next year or even this year," Randolph said. However, the odds weigh heavily in favor of a stable market at least for the coming winter, unless the weather is exceptionally cold for an extended period in both producing and consuming states, he said.

The federal Energy Information Administration this month slightly increased its forecast for natural gas prices but says consumers shouldn't worry about supplies.

The agency's latest forecast says residential natural gas prices are likely to rise about 2 percent this winter, to an average per thousand cubic feet of $5.57, compared with $5.48 in the same period last year.

Commercial inventories of natural gas are higher now than a year ago, and despite possible pipeline bottlenecks there is little reason to expect a serious supply problem, said Calvin Kilgore, director of the agency's energy markets office.

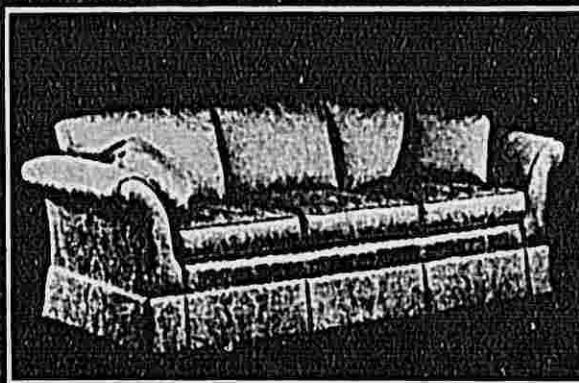

"It's a manageable situation," he said.

The American Gas Association, a trade group of gas distributors and pipeline companies, projects a 5.9 percent jump in residential gas prices this winter compared with last year, assuming the weather is neither unusually harsh nor mild.

The association said that while gas supplies should be adequate, transportation bottlenecks and weather uncertainties could cause prices to move erratically.

"During short periods in localized areas, this could even result in physical delivery constraints on getting gas," the association said in a recent report. (AP)

Students capture spirit of giving

The school year was barely a week old when Andy Gregory was asked about the project. "We still have a couple of months to go," Gregory told the anxious student. This week, his five classes competed against each other to raise funds for the Grayslake Lions Club annual food drive. This year some $35 per student, with the seventh hour speech communications class raising $320.25.

Gregory, who has been a Grayslake High teacher for 19 years, said the students "will come through if they are shown the need".

Meanwhile at Grayslake Junior High, the student council is sponsoring a toy collection drive for the Toys For Tots campaign for the past 12 years. This year's total was 1,027, topping the previous all-time high of 1,000.

Also at Grayslake Junior High, the Beta Club sponsored the canned food drive in support of the Lions Club. This year 1,298 pounds of food were collected.

Pitching in Grayslake Junior High School students participated in helping both the Toys for Tots and Grayslake Lions Club food campaigns just before Christmas vacation. It was a record-setting year for both efforts. From left: eighth graders Clayton Beck and Jenny Larson and seventh graders Joel Campblissey and Dawn Hoblit.

Meals on Wheels maintains pride for senior citizens

by MALENA SCHROEDER
Lakeland Newspapers

In the agile days of youth and even the slightly rusty days of middle age, good health and independence seem a given. It is difficult to imagine ourselves infirmed, aged and unable to get along. It is not a pleasant subject to concentrate on. A famous philosopher once said of old age that it was always at least fifteen years older than he was. But eventually, we all reach our golden years and if we're lucky, we can still help ourselves. Going to the store, preparing and eating meals in the privacy of our own homes becomes a matter of survival, but most importantly a matter of personnel pride.

There is an organization in Lake County that strives to maintain this pride for many of its senior citizens. Formally referred to as "Meals On Wheels", it is now known as the "Home Delivered Meals Program".

Frank Phillips, Director of Senior Community Services for Catholic Charities serves as the head coordinator. But participation is not exclusive to one denomination. There are in excess of 600 volunteers from various church, social and philanthropic organizations as well as private individuals involved. Phillips explains that the program designates "teams" from all over the county. These teams then select a leader who is responsible for recruiting additional volunteers to fill the groups' area needs.

Funding for this organization comes from federal and state governments. Grants are allocated to the Northeastern Illinois Agency for the Aging. From Oct. '89 to Oct. '90 Home Delivered Meals program will provide in excess of 56,100 meals to over 600 individuals in Lake County who might not otherwise have access to them.

Who are the people served by this organization? Phillips states that they cater to the frail, home-bound elderly. And "cater" is literally the word. Quality Catering of Lake Villa provides the basic hot food for the recipients. They deliver it to the various county-wide senior centers for heating/packaging and distribution. The community teams then pick them up for drop-offs to the individual seniors.

The Home Delivered Food Program provides meals five days a week, from Monday through Friday. A hot entree is provided for the afternoon meal, with a sack lunch included for evening. Two additional frozen meals are delivered for Saturday and Sunday. The meals contain general diets as well as salt and fat-free restrictions. If an individual is on a very restricted diet, the organization can procure their meal from either Victory or Condell hospitals.

"For many of our people, this is the only contact with the outside world they get," stresses Phillips. "Some have no one else who comes to visit. Many don't even have a T.V. Most people are confined to their home - this is their last bit of independence short of being institutionalized. They really look forward to that daily contact for those 4 to 10 minutes. We provide a valuable service. And our volunteers really bond with the clients. If something looks strange, if food from previous days has not been eaten, they contact us immediately and we follow up".

As Phillips states, "We can always use more volunteers". Apparently, delivering is not the only avenue volunteers can pursue. "If some people don't enjoy driving, they can come in to the centers and help package the meals. If they are good with numbers, we can always use bookkeeping help."

For special occasions, the volunteers like to include what Phillips terms as "doodads" with the seniors' meals. These tray favors which are for times such as Christmas, Father's Day, Thanksgiving, etc., really help to make the days special. Brownie troops, the Boy Scouts, and various church groups help provide these for the organization. Phillips says that many times elementary school teachers will call wanting to help and he encourages them to put their kids to work sharing their special crafts with the seniors. He adds that it is also very nice that in some areas, high school kids deliver meals on their lunch hour.

Maybe in these busy times it is difficult to give of ourselves. But one day old age may catch us. And we too will be waiting for a delivery. They say that wherever there is a human being there is an opportunity for kindness.

Stormwater group takes over drafting of wetlands ordinance

by MIKE PRAMSHAFFER
Lakeland Newspapers

The Lake County Stormwater Management Planning Committee has reached an agreement with the Lake County Health Dept. to "take over proceedings concerning a wetlands ordinance for Lake County."

Senior Planner Carol Schall said the stormwater agency is currently working with the health department in drafting a wetlands ordinance which will "hopefully come before the Lake County Board for approval next summer."

"Right now, we're in the drafting stages. We're looking to draft an ordinance similar to that of which the health department had previously done, but only tighter," said Schall.

He said the health department had been criticized by residents and various municipalities for "not being specific enough" in its effort to draft a wetlands ordinance this past fall.

"We're going to use some of that criticism to our advantage. It will definitely help us in identifying loopholes in the ordinance," Schall added.

The purpose behind the single governing ordinance for the entire Lake County area is to take control out of the hands of the Army Corps of Engineers regarding wetlands in the county.

Schall said the wetlands ordinance, if approved by the county board, will become part of the Stormwater Management Planning Committee ordinance, which will also include guidelines on detention basins and other stormwater issues.

The Stormwater Management Planning Committee was scheduled to discuss the ordinance at its Dec. 20 meeting. Schall said he hopes to have the ordinance drafted by next spring, with a public hearing in May.

Hoogasian gains support

In an unprecedented showing for a judicial campaign, some 600 admirers jammed the Country Squire Restaurant in Grayslake to show their support for Circuit Judge Jack Hoogasian in his bid to win a seat on the Appellate Court.

"I can't remember when I've been so deeply touched," Hoogasian said. "I expected a good turnout, but this just overwhelmed me."

Supporters were entertained by a talented group of violinists from Libertyville High School during the event, lending it a touch of class that is typical of the silver-haired jurist.

Hoogasian is running for a seat in the 2nd Appellate Dist., which covers 13 counties in northeastern Illinois, including Lake County.

A World War II veteran, Hoogasian served as Lake County State's Atty. before taking a seat on the circuit bench in 1980. He served a term as Chief Judge of the Circuit before deciding to seek a spot on the Appellate bench.

"Jack has always seen the law as a means of helping people," his wife, Claudia, said. "I think that's why so many people came out to cheer him on. He loves people, and they respond to his human approach. Though he's tough on the bench, he cares about people, and that is the quality he will bring to the Appellate Court."

The Republican primary election will be held March 20, 1990.

Blue Suede Shoes for all ages

Blue Suede Shoes offers something for everyone at its Park City location. The establishment, owned by Joe and Mike Bortz, is the largest 1950s and 1960s night club chain in the Chicagoland area.

The brothers own and operate four other Blue Suede Shoes establishments, with the newest one being in Milwaukee. They believe in the "have fun" philosophy. They want their patrons to have a good time, and if they don't it's their own fault.

There's a different crowd at the Park City facility every night, ranging in age from 21 to 80, according to Bortz, and the main attraction seems to be the music and gimmicks which have made Blue Suede Shoes a popular place to go for people of all ages.

Decor and various activities are updated regularly and provide patrons with a 1950s/1960s atmosphere. Antique automobiles, sports bar, wall murals and authentic Coca-Cola machines highlight the type of atmosphere evident at the facility.

On Jan. 6, 1990, all five establishments are offering a $5 million cash award to anyone who can bring "the King of Rock and Roll" (Elvis Presley) to the business.

Bortz said the firm has taken out a $1 million bond to back up the challenge.

Blue Suede Shoes is located at 580 Skokie Rd. For more information call (708) 662-2000.

Work that's fun

Joanne Linker and Rich Hart, owners of JJ Blinker's Clownin' Around Gift Shop on Main St. in Antioch, show their most popular items—hand buzzers and whoopee cushions. Linker, who is president of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce, says she takes care of day-today operations and handles the buying for the gift shop while Hart, who also owns Lake County Steel Treating, takes care of the books. Linker said running the shop is so much fun, she doesn't like to leave.—Photo by Kim Bolton.

Linker enjoys clownin' around

by KIM BOLTON
Lakeland Newspapers

It's hard to believe Joanne Linker was never known as the class clown.

The bubbly Linker is the owner of JJ Blinker's Clownin' Around Gift Shop on Main St. in Antioch and she says, with a straight face, that her high school class never knew the clown in her.

Whatever happened to Linker between high school and now must have been her out, she'd never be able to run the business.

Hart says Linker, who has a reputation among family and friends for buying everything in sight, is "my little shopper." He takes care of all the paperwork, including bills and taxes, and she buys merchandise for the store.

Linker says buying too much inventory is her biggest problem. She goes to gift shows four or five times a year and can't pass up anything she gets a kick out of—like a burping beer mug, a blow up sheep and a potato gun.

"I used to always buy a lot of stuff, only now I do it in quantity," Linker said. A woman who likes to have fun, Linker says she could stay in the store all night. She even has friends who work for free because they love the atmosphere and the customers, who are often looking for a funny way to "get even" with someone.

"I love this store. I don't think I'll go home today," Linker laughed.

Linker came up with the idea for the name of her store partly from friends and her husband saying they should put blinders on her when she shopped. She thought the word blinders in the title would be appropriate for a store that sells just about everything one doesn't need but wants anyway.

Her brother-in-law suggested changing the d in blinder to k so her last name was incorporated. She added her's and her husband's first initials, JJ, to come up with JJ Blinker's. Then, because she wanted to sell clowns, she added Clownin' Around Gift Shop.

But when customers wanted to know where the joke gifts were, since the store was called Clownin' Around, she added a line of gag gifts. Magic tricks have been the most sought after item that Linker currently does not carry, but she's planning to add them soon.

One month ago, Linker expanded her store to include party supplies and decorations as a service to her customers. That business has a separate name, Party Town!, which was named in honor of Antioch.

Linker says people in Antioch really like to have fun and have helped her business, as well as the chamber of commerce to succeed.

"This town is so generous...They're so supportive with their money it's just incredible.

"People don't mind spending their money if they have fun doing it.

"It's a party town. That's what it is," Linker said.

When a customer comes into her store and spends a lot of money, Linker lets the clown in her come out. She kisses the customers hand and says, "Oh thank you, thank you, thank you."

If she had to advise someone interested in opening their own business in a downtown area, Linker said the first thing that should be understood is you're not going to grow rich overnight. She said her business started small and is growing with the changing needs and desires of the community.

"The one thing I have to say is I love my job," Linker said.

Although Linker, who comes from the north side of Chicago, is anxious to tell her old high school friends and classmates what she's been doing for the past five years, she says she's afraid of what children are going to think of her selling whoopee cushions when she's 50.

But, she says, quickly smiling, "I don't care about that. It's fun."

"The one thing I have to say is I love my job." —Joanne Linker, owner of JJ Blinker's Clownin' Around.

magical because she has a personality most people would envy and a store that perfectly matches it.

But Linker can't keep a straight face when she shows you everything she sells—and there's a lot of merchandise. Blinks does have beautiful gifts for all occasions, ages and interests, but there are also bachelor and bachelorette party gifts and joke gifts that will knock your socks off (and maybe more than that).

The opening of Linker's store was a dream come true for her. She was a secretary moonlighting as a waitress at the Vault Restaurant, also on Main St., when she met her partner, Rich Hart, while serving him one night. Hart was a regular and Linker used to tell him how she always wished she could open a gift shop and all the ideas she had for one.

One day Hart, who owns Lake County Steel Treating Co., said if she was really serious, he would back her financially. Linker didn't believe him at first, but before she knew it, they were looking for a store in downtown Antioch.

Linker gets very serious when she speaks about Hart and about her husband, Josh. She said without their help, and the support of her family and friends helping pass up anything she gets a kick out of—like a burping beer mug, a blow up sheep and a potato gun.

"I used to always buy a lot of stuff, only now I do it in quantity," Linker said.

A woman who likes to have fun, Linker says she could stay in the store all night. She even has friends who work for free because they love the atmosphere and the customers, who are often looking for a funny way to "get even" with someone.

FINANCIAL FOCUS

reported by Brosius D'Arcy

One axiom every investor should heed is, "Don't believe everything you read."

The top-performing mutual fund should be ranked number one by all financial magazines, right? Wrong. Visit any newsstand, select your favorite money publications and compare their mutual fund hit parades. Most likely, the magazines won't even mention the same funds, much less have them ranked in the same order.

According to the Investment Company Institute, a Washington-based information source, there are more than two-thousand-six-hundred mutual funds that are separated into 22 categories. Each magazine sets its own guidelines for rating funds.

No one can predict the future, but consistently beating the market is a strong management credential. Surprisingly, consistent performers are seldom listed on the newsstand hit parade. Why? Because they show a commitment to long-term results over short-term heroics.

Most serious investing is long term. Those who avoid the temptation to chase today's magazine "top ten" might find management hunting a more profitable venture.

IRAs: They're still a good idea

by CHARLES WHITE
Lakeland Newspapers

From the early 1980's until 1986, IRAs were considered an excellent way for all Americans to prepare for the future. As usual, Congress passed incentives on something they knew nothing about (saving money). Then, in the name of tax reform and broadening the tax base, the incentives were removed for many. So, do IRA contributions still make sense after tax reform?

To answer this, we need to look at what the new rules state. IRAs are still fully deductible up to your earned income or $2000, whichever is less, if you are not a participant in a qualified plan. Thus, many working for themselves or for a small company with no plan can still deduct contributions regardless of their income. The catch comes in where the spouse of these individuals is covered by a plan. Then neither one may deduct the IRA contribution unless they meet the income requirements.

The income requirements test adjusted gross income before subtracting the IRA. For married couples filing jointly, the deduction phases out proportionately between $40,000 and $50,000. For single individuals (including head of household) the deduction phases out between $25,000 and $35,000. If you are married and choose to file separately, the phaseout is between $0 and $10,000, so there is not much advantage there. You are permitted to make non-deductible IRA contributions up to the same limits and have the earnings grow tax deferred, but with the added burden of additional tracking, maintaining separate accounts, additional IRS filings, etc., the cost often outweighs the benefit.

What does make sense, if you are eligible to contribute to a qualified plan, is to put in as much as is comfortable, and to diversify your dollars (if possible) among several investment choices. If your company offers to match the money you put in with some percentage of company dollars, so much the better.

You receive an automatic return in the amount of their match, plus the earnings the funds generate (not to mention the tax savings). The proper diversification percentages will vary for each individual. You should seek out a competent investment advisor for assistance with this question. Since there are several variables to consider, such as your other investments, the length of time your retirement, your risk tolerance level, etc.

IRAs are still very much alive and well for retirement growth and earnings in one particular situation. With the activity today of mergers and acquisitions, more individuals are likely to be faced with rollover decisions at some point in their career. Although the temptation is strong to take the money, pay the penalties and taxes, and spend the windfall... "just say no". You could lose up to 46 percent in taxes. Even with the most pessimistic outlook on tax increases, it would still be better to roll the money over and defer the tax consequences, whether you begin taking distributions or not. Instead of five-year averaging, you should opt for "life expectancy averaging".

The best strategy available to the rollover candidate is to place the funds into a bonafide self-directed IRA. Be careful here as many so called self-directed accounts offer nothing more than what that particular bank or insurance company has to offer. To obtain true diversification, one needs to invest in more than just stocks, bonds or cash. You should have access to a wide array of asset categories on the investment spectrum (and not all by the same provider). This can give you the flexibility necessary to practice successful asset allocation techniques and achieve returns higher than most company plans have historically shown.

The key word is flexibility. This technique allows you, for example, to choose the best mutual funds in several categories, not just within one family. If the assets are sufficient, an individual money manager may be selected for an appropriate portion of the portfolio, while selecting investments in other categories with the help of your investment advisor. The idea is to have the ability to manage your IRA portfolio just as you would your personal portfolio. distributions. With many company plans, no distributions are allowed until age 65. However, with an IRA, there are several ways to begin withdrawing money prior to age 59 1/2, without incurring a 10 percent penalty. This could be beneficial, particularly if you are retired and do not want to begin collecting Social Security prior to age 65.

This decision is not simple. The best advice is to seek out professional assistance. Above all, do not be caught unaware and make hurried, last minute decisions which may negatively impact you financially for the rest of your life. Plan ahead and give yourself plenty of lead time. You want to keep all options open until you choose what is right for you.

EYE CARE

New Views & Questions About Your Eyes

By

Robert L. Epstein, M.D., Director
Illinois Center for Corrective Eye Surgery

QUESTION: I'm having trouble seeing straight ahead when driving or reading. What does this mean?

ANSWER: Sometimes the tissues in the back of the eye where light focuses start to break down or thin out. In other cases, fragile blood vessels form behind the tissues and begin to leak causing them to swell. These tissues are known as the macula, thus the condition is called macular degeneration.

When these conditions occur, you begin to lose your straight ahead vision and may also have trouble seeing colors. It happens slowly and at a separate pace in each eye. The good eye compensates for the weaker eye so the problem may not be noticed immediately.

There is no treatment for people with worn macular, but laser surgery can help correct problems related to blood vessels and halt further vision loss or in some cases restore vision.

A key to diagnosing macular degeneration is regular visits to an ophthalmologist or an immediate visit when straight ahead or color vision problems are first noticed.

Film Review

Maybe Roseanne Barr has been chosen "The Most Boring Celebrity," by the official Boredom Inst., but she does have her moments.

In her first big screen attempt, "She Devil," she's in the esteemed acting company of Academy Award winner Meryl Streep who steals the show as she emerges as a top comedienne, fantastic timing and all.

If you like Barr's tv character, you'll like her big screen one since this lazy housewife, who constantly finds herself in some kind of trouble, is more than reminiscent of her television self.

Streep's part draws more yaks than the profession comedienne's, with her varied talents and cinematic experience making Barr look less professional, leaving her film debut with something to be desired.

On the basis of a hilarious script that has Barr's husband, Ed Begley, Jr., coming under the spell of Streep and Barr wrecking vengeance, and Streep's and Begley's performances, let's rate this four out of five stars.

Be There

Many families that celebrate Christmas on Christmas Eve have decided to eliminate the work of hosting a family party by going out to dinner on Dec. 24 and then returning home to open the gifts beneath the tree.

The Country Squire in Grayslake will be serving a champagne brunch from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., and dinners from noon, on Christmas Eve.

Andres on the Bay in Fox Lake, will be closed on the eve, but Christmas dinner, consisting of roast turkey and dressing, will be on a special holiday menu.

Madison Ave., overlooking the Waukegan Harbor, will be open for that special dinner on Christmas Eve.

At Chef Karl's Edelweiss Inn in Libertyville, you can get an old fashioned holiday goose dinner, either on the eve or the day, with choice of orange or cherry sauce, potato dumplings and home-baked bread, for $14.95.

Then there's "festive dining by the fireside" at La Boheme in Winnetka before hurrying home to see what Santa has brought

Music

There are still special concerts featuring Christmas music going on to get one in the proper holiday mood.

City Musick presents Handel's "Messiah" played on period 18th century instruments, at 7:30 p.m., on Friday, Dec. 22, at the Pick Staiger Concert Hall in Evanston.

On Saturday, Dec. 23, at 8 p.m., the Woodstock Opera House will host the Mostly Madrigal Singers singing "Candlelight Carols." Featuring "Midnight Mass for Christmas," the singers will be accompanied by a chamber orchestra.

Balgord does new Brice

One of the hardest acts to follow is one where an entertainer creates a role with which they eventually become identified.

Quintet set for Andres

The Chicago Percussion Quintet will play a hot couple of sets of percussion jazz, featuring vibraphone, marimba, xylophone, and orchestra bells, augmented by a large variety of percussion "toys" that add the color and flavor of different regions of the world.

The Chicago Percussion Quintet has performed throughout the Chicagoland area. The members are some of Chicago's busiest and most versatile professional musicians who perform in all phases of the music business from Chicago Symphony Orchestra to Broadway musicals in Chicago's theaters.

The performance will be held on Friday, Jan. 5 at 8:30 p.m. at Andres Steak House, Richmond. The cost is $12. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

film version of "Funny Girl," winning both a Tony and an Oscar to boot.

The Marriott Lincolnshire Theatre is running a great production of "Funny Girl," starring Linda Balgord, a belting singer with a great resonant voice.

She does a fine job musically for the most part, singing Barbara's songs with ear-pleasing enthusiasm.

This reviewer was a little disappointed with the Balgord version of a favorite song, "People," as the Marriott star sped through it.

In fact if one were to find fault with Balgord's well-done version of Fanny Brice, it would be she was off to the races dramatically a few times too many.

Streisand's Brice, though a comic, was always a lady. Balgord's mugging often borders on slapstick and maybe this is truer Brice interpretation, if one is to judge by the Ziegfeld Follies' star's Baby Snooks of early radio fame.

John Reeger's Nicky Arnstein is acceptable, though a trite too stiff, and Rondi Reed's version of Fanny's mom is in the win column.

The costuming is well-done by Nancy Missimi as is the set, ably created by Thomas Ryan and the directing and choreography work of Joe Leonardo and Jim Corti, respectively.

The Jules Styne, Bob Merrill musical will be running at the Marriott into January 1990.

Mom Likes To Cook

By Randee

Win hearts and conquer appetites with delicious Christmas fare. Spice up tradition with some of my favorite accompaniments for your holiday ham or turkey dinner.

Through cooking, we express love for family members, honor visitors and paper children.

Choose the recipes here that suit your style for Christmas; then mix, taste, bake and enjoy. Merry Christmas to you...

As long as I can remember, my mother made our Christmas "green salad." It's cool and creamy and very pretty. Buy red and green Maraschino cherries, slice the green into fourths and the red in half. Together, placed on the salad, they look like holly and berries.

Creamy-Cheesy Lime Jello Salad

- 1 (3 oz.) pkg. lime jello
- 1/2 cup sugar
- Pinch of salt
- 1 1/2 cup boiling water
- 1 cup whipping cream (to be whipped)
- 1 (15 oz.) can crushed pineapple
- 1 (1 lb.) container small curd cottage cheese
- Red and green Maraschino cherries
- Lettuce leaves

Combine jello, sugar, salt and boiling water. Stir well and let cool until jello mixture sets. Meanwhile, whip the cream and drain the pineapple. With a wire whisk, break up the firm jello and add the whipped cream, drained crushed pineapple and the cottage cheese. Fold together gently to mix all ingredients. Place in serving bowl and chill to firm (overnight). To serve, decorate with red and green Maraschino cherries and place with large serving spoon, a portion on lettuce leaves.

Cranberry-Orange Butter Glaze (for ham or turkey)

- 1 lb. can cranberry jelly
 - 6 oz. can frozen orange juice concentrate (thawed)
 - 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
- Mash cranberry jelly well in a saucepan. Mix in orange juice concentrate and butter. Heat together until jelly is melted and mixture is smooth. Brush or spoon over ham or turkey (or chicken or duck) during the last hour of roasting time. Brush on glaze several times; you may want to "tent" the meat with foil if the glaze begins to brown too quickly. Serve remaining glaze hot with ham or fowl.

Winter Park, skiing for beginners to experts

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

If you read my column last week you will know that I took the train to Winter Park, Colorado, which seemed fitting as it was the railroad workers who created this ski resort 50 years ago.

Winter Park is located right at the west portal of the six-mile-long Moffit Tunnel. Upon completion of the tunnel, the workers thought this to be a perfect place for a ski resort.

The ski area consists of three mountains—Winter Park, Mary Jane (I'll explain the history of that name in a moment) and Vasquez. With a total of 106 runs, equally divided between beginner, intermediate and expert, you should find many to your liking. (I was proud of myself for getting beyond the runs marked "easiest way off mountain.")

Never, ever skied before? A lesson comes free with your lift ticket. If you are just a "Midwest" skier, like myself, take a lesson. While there are gentle runs, the mere size of a 12,000-foot mountain can be intimidating.

Unlike most resorts, the stores, restaurants and night action are in town, not at the slopes. A free shuttle bus runs every 1/2 hour between the slopes and most resorts.

Suggested lodging: Try the Beaver Village Condos, Raintree or Hi Country Haus. Restaurants: You must try the quesadillas and the green chili at the Crooked Creek Saloon, also a good place for night life with local color. Other night spots include the Slopes, another favorite of the locals. The younger crowd can be found at the Stampede.

Oh yes, about Mary Jane. It seems the cold winters had the railroad workers ready to quit, so the company hired a gal named Mary Jane to help their employees keep warm on those frigid nights. The workers were so grateful that they named a mountain after Miss Mary Jane.

Lakeland's WEEKEND/LEISURE

'Moonbirds' opens 1990 season for Stage Two

Stage Two Theatre Company, the professional theater company housed at the College of Lake County, marks the beginning of its fifth season with "Moonbirds."

The comic-drama by Houston playwright Christopher Woods, will have its world premiere in Grayslake beginning Dec.

29. Known for presenting new and different works, Stage Two Theater Company will present its eighth world premiere.

"I'm very excited about working with Stage Two again," stated Woods, whose one-act "Interim" was presented by the company in August. "Very few theatre companies are willing to take the ultimate risk of presenting new plays. Stage Two, on the other hand, has embraced that challenge."

Woods is not only known as a playwright but also as a novelist and poet. His work has appeared in journals throughout the United States and in eight foreign countries.

Among his works are the novel "The Dream Patch" and a book of poems entitled "Houses and Fugues." Recently Woods was selected as a nominee for the prestigious Pushcart Prize for writing.

"Indiana Jones meets Jean Paul Sartre is how this play strikes me, in some ways," stated author Woods. "Ignoto and Rien, the two main characters in this play, are symbols of every man. They are census-takers in a land where there are no people to count, and their senses of dignity in the face of danger says something about the human spirit."

The show will be directed by Ensemble Member Marjorie A. Engesser. This is her directorial debut for Stage Two and she has appeared in the company's productions of "Black Comedy," "Crazy Legs," and "Fruitcake" in the 1989 season.

She has directed many plays, including the World Premieres of "Ryan and Vegetable Soup" and also directed her own play "Shiloh" and Mankato State University.

Bryan W. Simon and Mark Kettner, co-artistic directors, will be portraying the census-takers in "Moonbirds." Simon is Stage Two's founder and was last seen as 9:33 in Woods "Interim" and as the down-and-out Richie in "Fruitcake."

The show will run through Jan. 20 at the CLC theater in Building 5. Ticket prices range from as little as $5 for seniors/students, $7 with reservations, and $8 at the door. Reservations are recommended and can be obtained by calling the box office at (708)662-7088.

"P.R.O.M. '63," at the Mystery Cafe of Chicago's Essex Inn is potentially a terrific nostalgia trip for aging Baby Boomers and a treat for whodunit fans.

Unfortunately, the mystery-dinner presentation by Phillip Lebovits, fails to graduate beyond the plebeian.

The food, a mundane salad, banquet-grade chicken and canned vegetables, comes with a serviceable mushroom soup. But the storyline of the play is as thin as the broth.

While guests work their way through the meal, the cast of six serves as hosts to the 1963 Harry M. Daugherty High School Senior Prom.

There's audience participation as paper ballots are distributed for the election of a prom queen. Candidates include the brainy Kiki Keister (Colleen Kelly), the effervescent Suzie Magnuson (Samantha Bennett) and the glamorous but conniving Debbie Deebolt (Pamela Wesselmann).

Jim O'Heir, as "Crunch" Hockenberry, provides a few sparks of genuine humor. But O'Heir's talents, following an outstanding, sensitive performance in the Pegasus Players' "Boys Next Door," are largely wasted here.

During a sudden blackout for a air raid, a shot is heard. When the lights go on again (surprise, surprise!), there's a corpse.

The audience gets to play Sherlock Holmes, although it's given only a few off-putting clues.

Because there's so little involvement between cast and audience, the exercise of trying to guess the murderer's identity seems pointless.

A good Dick Francis detective novel, or even a Perry Mason television rerun might be more engaging than "P.R.O.M. (Perfidious Rite of Murder), '63."

Drug probe nets three arrests in Park City bar

Metropolitan Enforcement Group officials (MEG), working with Park City law enforcement officials, arrested three men and charged them with drug-related charges Tuesday night at All-Stars Bar and Grill.

The arrests were officially announced at a noon press conference in Park City Wednesday. Arrested were: Eric Peterson of Libertyville, Bobby Joe Naylor of Waukegan and William Terry of Waukegan. Some five more warrants are expected to be served by the apprehension unit of MEG.

Park City Mayor Rob

Allen explained he first met with Police Chief Rob Williams to discuss a possible problem at All-Stars two and one-half months ago. Williams then contacted Wayne Hunter of MEG and the investigation started some two and one-half months ago.

Following the arrests Tuesday, Allen, acting as liquor commissioner, shut down the bar for seven days, as a "cooling off" period.

No All-Stars employees or management were arrested, although an investigation is continuing into their involvement.

Allen said the city will proceed cautiously with action on the liquor license as to "not to hinder the prosecution."

"A lot of other communities can learn from this," Mike Waller, chief deputy states atty., said.

"We had utmost cooperation regarding our local concerns. We were fully informed and consulted," Magna said.

Dina Joy Byrd

Dina Joy Byrd, a junior at Millikin Univ. and resident of Lake Villa, played the role of Millie in the recent theatre production of "Hot L. Baltimore." The Lanford Wilson play was presented five times.

Lotus Woods drug bust 'tip of iceberg' - Nagel

The Jackson Bay Resort cocaine bust by North Central Narcotics Task Force officers is the just the "tip of the iceberg," according to Fox Lake Police Chief Ron Nagel.

Nagel, whose department assisted in the arrest of two Lotus Woods residents and one Antioch native, said the future of Lake County holds "plenty more of these types of arrests."

Robert Pinkonsky, 51, of Antioch was arrested and charged with two counts of delivery of a controlled substance of over 15 grams and one count of delivery of a controlled substance of over 100 grams.

Nagel said Pinkonsky, who had a previous drug trafficking record, was a "major supplier of cocaine in the Fox Lake area."

"We hope to send a message with this occurrence because we're going to do everything in our power to clean up the community. Along with all the other communities in Lake County, we want a drug-free society," the chief said.

Also arrested in the Dec. 12 bust was Judith Olsen, 49 and Kathleen Cummins, 39, both of Lotus Woods. Both were charged with delivery of a controlled substance of over 15 grams.

Mike Sliozis, of the Lake County Metropolitan Enforcement Group, said both Lake and McHenry Counties are working together and currently have ongoing investigations regarding drug trafficking.

"We want to take the drugs off the street. Drugs have become a major problem in our society today, and something must be done to eliminate that problem."

Officials estimate that Pinkonsky was distributing between three and five pounds of cocaine per month in the Fox Lake area. "That's a pretty big bust for the Fox Lake area. The street price for cocaine is currently between $1,200 and $1,500 per ounce," said Nagel.

If Nagel's figures are correct, Pinkonsky was bringing in approximately $585,000 worth of cocaine to the Fox Lake area per month.

Whistle causes dispute

Trustee Kenneth Hamsher said he will push for a meeting with Metra officials to see if anything can be done about unnecessary whistle blowing by commuter trains.

"I think there is a valid reason for complaints," Hamsher stated. He said he also has received complaints from citizens about engine idling noise. During the winter, commuter train engines are run all night.

FLOOR PLAN
PLAN NO. 209-30

The no-frills Chandlers calls both the city and country home.

Perfect for a young family or retirees, the 1,716 square-foot home offers two-bedroom, two-bath living for those wanting life within city limits.

For ski nuts and hiking buffs, the Chandler fits nicely beyond the city limits, as a second country home or a lake cabin.

For starters, an expensive deck, perfect for taking morning coffee amidst the towering pines, surrounds the house on two sides. A huge garage - which is about half the size of the house - is large enough for a snow blower or a four-wheel drive truck.

Inside, the homey Chandler is simplicity at work. Step from a covered porch into a wide entry way. The living room, dining room and kitchen are on the right side of the house. The bedrooms and baths comprise the left side.

Each bedroom features its own bath and yards of closet space. This arrangement works out nicely when another couple or other friends visit for a ski weekend and require their privacy.

The kitchen features a U-shaped set-up, typically of yachts. Everything is within arm's reach. Have breakfast at the eating bar, or lay out the festive board in the dining room.

The nearby pantry stands ready if you want to lay in stores for the winter. The home features open beam vaulted ceilings throughout.

Be it a starter home or a wilderness hideaway. The Chandler can accommodate.

For a study plan of the CHANDLER (209-30), send $5.00 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering). Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

THIS WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

By Joyce Jillson
Weekly Tip: You'll bring much enthusiasm and energy to all you do this week. Get organized. You'll have time to shop Tuesday, but your judgment may be off.
Aries (March 21-April 19) Your spirits are up this week, and you're open to adventure. Stay busy, but don't push yourself too much.
Taurus (April 20-May 20) Luxuries appeal to you, but be practical. Although the weekend could find you exhausted, you'll find extra energy magically.
Gemini (May 21-June 21) Good financial judgment Monday. Later, relationships heat up, causing plenty of sparks.
Cancer (June 22-July 22) An active week of visits, phone calls, meetings. You'll be ahead of your holiday chores from Friday on.
Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Financial issues are top priority; stretch your dollars. Time for passion Friday.
Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Stay focused and you can accomplish wonders this week. Accept a helping hand from loved ones.
Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do things your way this week and you'll find success. Try to avoid pressure situations on Friday.
Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) Strengthen friendships, which can be a real source of comfort. The attention you want comes on Friday and Saturday.
Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Court the people who could affect your career. You'll be forced to make decisions now.
Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Remember the importance of love and togetherness. After events this weekend, you'll know who your friends are.
Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Be willing to adjust to others' emotional needs. Moon in Libra week makes a good relationship great.
Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) Your partner balances out your emotions, and family ties are reassuring. The weekend brings out your holiday spirit.
If You Were Born This Week
This is a time of tremendous personal renewal. Expect exciting business possibilities in February. March brings greater family unity.

Private Industry Council to assist unemployed

The Private Industry Council of Lake County has been awarded a grant of $265,000 in federal job training funds through the Illinois Dept. of Commerce and Community Affairs. This money is earmarked to assist workers who have lost jobs because their stores, plants or offices have moved from Lake County or have gone out of business.

At the November Private Industry Council meeting, Eleanor Rostron, County Board member and ex-officio member of the Private Industry Council, said, "The sooner the PIC is made aware of a company closing, the sooner laid-off employees can be helped."

Rostron continued, "Being unemployed is a traumatic experience for a worker, as well as for the worker's family and the entire community. The Private Industry Council acts to minimize this suffering by getting affected persons back into the workforce as soon as possible."

Christine Stevens, director of the Council, explained, "We do this through skill reassessment, vocational retraining when necessary, and job search preparation. We also assist with financial incentives for companies hiring and training these seasoned workers."

Rostron believes that concerned citizens should call the Council when they learn about a business or industry folding up or moving away. The unemployed workers themselves are also urged to call the Council. The Council phone number is (708) 249-2200.

Libraries receive grants

Sec. of State and State Librarian Jim Edgar has announced the awarding of $180,000 in grants that will help 168 public libraries including North Chicago and Wauconda Public Libraries, purchase "fax" machines.

Edgar said the funds will provide half the cost of a telefacsimile transmission machine, or fax, machine. Individual grant amounts were limited to $800.

"Fax machines are today's vital way of transmitting information quickly," Edgar said. "These grants reflect the Illinois State Library's desire to encourage libraries to use the latest technology to share information. By using fax machines, we can reduce delivery time and provide information more quickly."

Fax machines are fast becoming essential information devices worldwide. Approximately 12 billion pages were transmitted among the nation's fax machines in 1988. An estimated 56 billion pages will be sent in 1991.

Illinois now has the largest number of libraries in the country using fax equipment. This round of grants is the result of a program the Secretary of State's office funded in the 1980's to test the use of fax machines to provide urgently needed medical information. The test site was a group of libraries in the Galesburg area.

Trying again

Highland Lake resident Larry Leafblad once again files for election to the Lake County Board in Dist. 4, as he tries to overcome his defeat two years ago for the same seat. Metra will operate holiday schedules Metra commuter rail will operate special holiday schedules on Friday, Dec. 22, and Friday, Dec. 29.

All lines except Metra/Electric and Metra/Milwaukee will follow revised weekday schedules, many of which will reflect minor changes in morning service and feature extra runs out of Chicago during the early and mid-afternoon.

Metra/Electric and Metra/Milwaukee will operate normal weekday schedules, and extra cars will be added to outbound trains between 1 and 3 p.m. to accommodate heavier ridership.

"Many companies allow employees to leave work early on the Friday before Christmas and New Year's, and we want to make sure we're in a position to serve those folks," said Metra Chairman Jeff Ladd.

Metra also will have holiday service in effect on Monday, Dec. 25, and Monday, Jan. 1, with all lines on a Sunday schedule.

Timetables for Dec. 22 and Dec. 29 are available on the trains and are posted at all Metra downtown terminals and outlying stations. For information, call Metra Passenger Services, (312) 322-6777, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays; or the Travel Information Center, (312) 836-7000 (from Chicago), or 1-800-972-7000 (from the suburbs).

Marillac honors

Nicole Robert of Buffalo Grove has been named to the first quarter honor roll at Marillac High School, Northfield.

Forest Preserve salutes volunteers' contributions

The Lake County Forest Preserve Board gave a salute to those who volunteer their services to the Lake County Museum and other facilities and events.

"Without their help, the museum would not be where it is today," board member Bruce Hansen of Dist. 6 said.

"They really contribute a substantial amount," Jan Gallimore Smith, Lake County Museum director, said.

Ryerson Conservation area volunteers gave over 4,189 hours of service, equal to $47,075. Meanwhile, volunteers in conservation worked 1,500 hours for a savings of $11,250 and volunteers and those who donated their time at the booths at the annual Senior Day held this summer worked 724 hours, equal to $2,627. Checks were presented to C. Richard Anderson, president of the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. Board.

At the Lake County Museum, located just east of Wauconda, volunteers operate a gift shop, conduct tours and educational programs, build and maintain scenery and exhibits and provide research and library services.

The program was formalized in 1982 and the volunteers are divided into the following categories: weekly volunteers; special events and program volunteers and special projects volunteers.

Give the Gift of Life this Christmas

You are reading this because you care about the fate of unwanted animals. Our work saves those unwanted animals and places them in responsible homes, or provides a "No-kill", uncaged, quality lifetime in our shelter. We are a non-profit, all volunteer organization. To maintain our high standards of health care and cleanliness, we need your help!

Three ways you can help:

Adopt a pet

All of our animals are in perfect health and are cared for daily. We will only adopt our animals to quality homes. We have many healthy kittens and puppies that are ready for adoption.

Volunteer your time

We need volunteers to help our organization and our animals. If you can spare 2 hours of your time each week, it will make a big difference. Please call and we will help you get started.

Financial assistance

We have over 250 animals in our shelter. They need food, medical attention and lots of love. If you can not be a volunteer, you can still be a member by making a fully tax deductible contribution today.

These animals need your help!

Antioch hopes for better showings at tournament

Home it on the schedule maker. Antioch and Waukegan West, two schools within a 30 minute drive of one another, will both hop on buses and travel more than an hour to play an early morning game in the Rockford Christmas tournament. The Sequoits and West will open the tourney at 9 a.m. Dec. 27. For Antioch Coach Jeff Dresser, the hope is the squad will be one of early risers. Antioch, 2-6 overall lost its fifth straight North Suburban Conference game when Niles North dominated 65-49. It was the same problems for the Sequoits, as the Vikings outscored them 33-7 in the middle quarters. "It was a total team effort of failure," Dresser said. Antioch started well, leading 16-11 after eight minutes. "We played a good first quarter and then we were flat. They played tough defense against us. We didn't adjust to it," Dresser said. On offense, Niles North, which notched its first win of the conference season, used a patient offense against the Sequoits. Co-captain forward Jason Saltzman, a senior, led the winners with 21 points. Matt Pelland scored 14 points and had 12 rebounds to lead Antioch. "When we got through their press, we were not patient on the offensive end of it," Dresser said. Mike Newcomb scored 11 points, including three three-point shots for Antioch. The closest Antioch could come in the second half was a 12 point deficit.

Antioch girls win OT battle, win streak at 8

Antioch High's girls basketball team is hoping the tournament portion of the schedule will be just as impressive as the first 11 games.

The Sequoits will travel to Carpentersville for the Dundee-Crown tournament beginning Dec. 26 and will face Mother McCauley in a 6:30 p.m. game. Two years ago, the calibre of the tournament was at its peak as three teams made the Elite Eight.

Antioch comes into the tournament riding an eight-game winning streak and just one game behind unbeaten Warren in the North Suburban Conference. Victims of late have included North Chicago, Stevenson, Mundelein and Zion-Benton.

The Mundelein and Zion contests were both not for the faint of heart as Antioch won in the fourth quarter and overtime.

Against Mundelein, Liz Johnson scored the winning basket with 30 seconds left. The Mustangs had tied Antioch several times in the final quarter, but the home team held on.

Janelle Macki and Teri Farnsworth guarded Mundelein standout Ashley Staggles and kept her in check.

Against Zion-Benton, the Sequoits improved to 7-1 in the NSC as they dominated the overtime.

"We came out and took control," Antioch Coach Al Tamburrino said.

The Zee-Bees, led by Lisa Shelton, zoomed to a 14-7 lead after one before Antioch recovered with a 19-7 second quarter spurt.

"We looked very disorganized in the first quarter. In the second quarter we started to play our kind of game," Tamburrino said.

Macki, in addition to her defensive efforts, turned in 17 point performance, coming off the bench.

In the overtime, Antioch had only one field goal but did not need any more, as a 9-2 run was made possible by seven-of-12 free-throw shooting.

Earlier, the Sequoits used strong three quarters to down Stevenson 54-40.

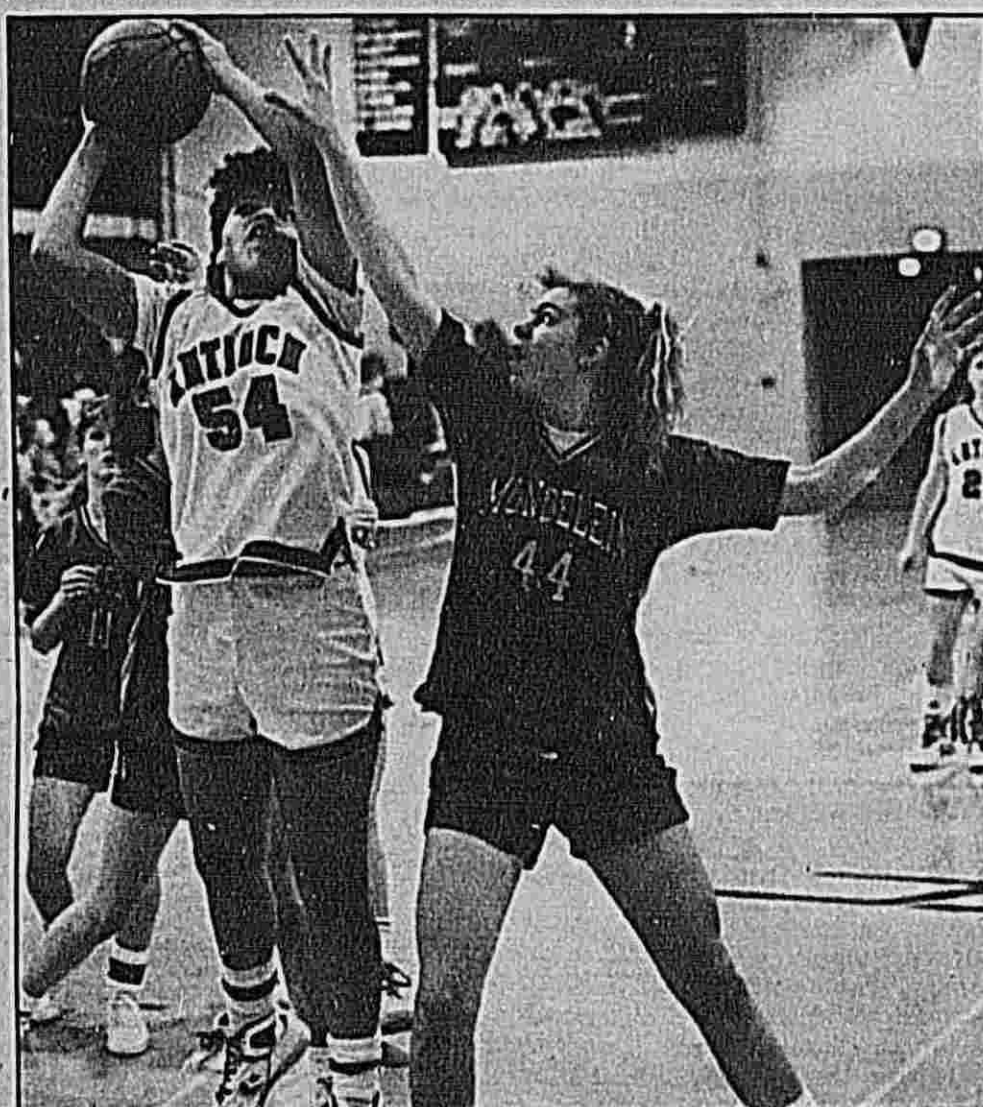

"I kind of chewed them out at the end of the first quarter," Tamburrino said.

The Pats led 14-13 after eight minutes but an 8-4 second quarter advantage for Antioch sent them ahead to stay.

Johnson contributed 15 points and Sue Ozga had 13. Mindy Sugra had nine for the winners.

Antioch had no problem in downing North Chicago 83-28. Johnson had 21 points and Ozga 15.

Barb Wunn had 12 rebounds.

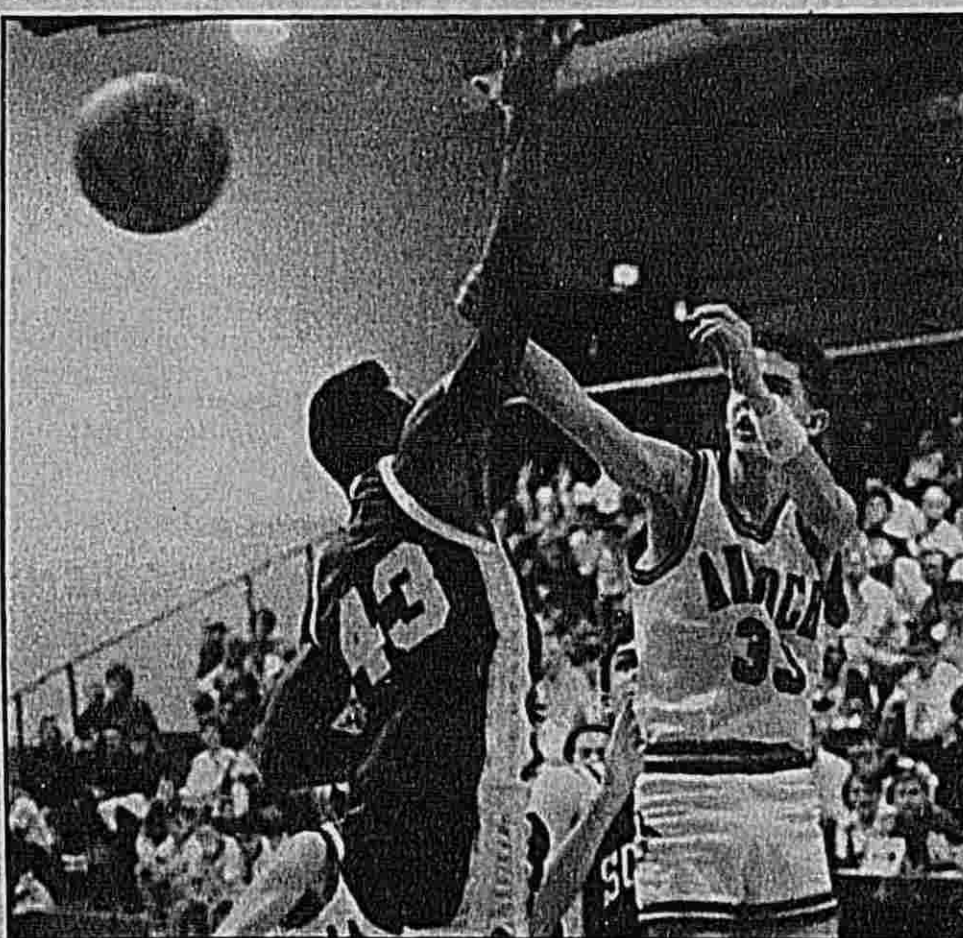

Rebound battle

Antioch's Liz Johnson (54) goes up for two against Mundelein's Shauna Kessel. Antioch led in the third quarter when Johnson attempted shot and held on for 46-44 North Suburban Conference win. Sequoits are 7-1 in conference play, in second place behind Warren. - Photo by Steve Young.

Headed for two

Antioch's Matt Pelland heads for two points during North Suburban Conference win over Warren. Sequoits have struggled since, with 2-6 record through eight games. Antioch is at Rockford tournament Dec. 27. - Photo by Steve Young.

Going for three

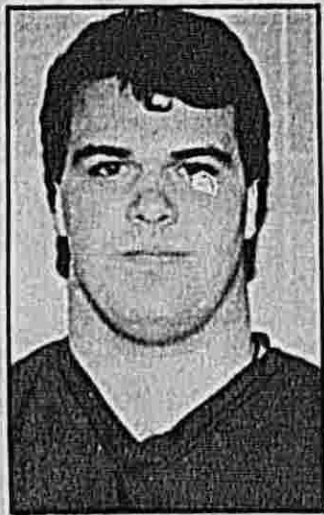

Antioch's Mike Newcomb shoots a baseline three-pointer. Newcomb has developed into one of the top three-point shooters in Lake County. He contributed three more in a loss at Niles North Friday. - Photo by Steve Young.

Baczek, Corsairs ready for county wrestle meet

By BRENT KILLACKY
Lakeland Newspapers

The high school wrestling season has been launched and Carmel High School may be looking for a top spot this year.

"We're young," Carmel Coach Joe Scordino said. The team has several freshmen starting, along with many sophomores and juniors as well. "But most of those juniors have wrestled three years and the freshmen have wrestled at the grade school level," he said.

Even though many on the team have wrestled before, Scordino feels the team is "a bit inexperienced."

"We're going to be learning during the year, but I think we will do fine. They pick up on it quick," Scordino said.

"In fact, even though we won against Lake Forest. I was upset because we did some basic skills incorrectly. But by Saturday we corrected them, so I am really pleased with the way the season is looking," he said.

A strong sophomore turnout this year, more than 25, although it seems like an overabundance, is probably going to help the program.

"If somebody gets sick, there is somebody to fill in," said Scordino.

Carmel has three strong seniors this year: Todd Baczek, Bob Baum and Jim Brophy (all were sectional qualifiers last year).

Baczek is undefeated through nine matches heading into the Dec. 22 and 23 Lake County meet at Waukegan West.

"It feels pretty good. But it is scary because I have to hold onto the ranking," Baczek said.

The senior said experience from last year was his strength, but pointed out there is a lot of strong competition this year.

He also has an interesting way to prepare for a match.

"I go to sleep before my match," he said. Of course every wrestler gets a full night's sleep before a match, but Baczek takes a snooze just a few minutes before he is due to work. "It is a long day by then and I'm tired and I just want to go to sleep," Baczek said.

The sleep, however, does aid him. "It clears my mind and it psyches the other guy out," Baczek said.

Baczek currently is being scouted for a football scholarship, likes wrestling because, "it is more of a one-on-one sport than a team sport".

This year Baczek, a heavyweight, is aiming for state.

Scardino is optimistic about Baczek and the team this year. "I think we will do pretty good. The kids work hard, the ability is there, only time will tell. I hope people will come out and give the kids their support because they really do work hard," he said.

Panthers in top spot

Round Lake continues its top ranking this week in the Lakeland Newspapers final pre-Christmas tourneys rankings.

The top five:

1. Round Lake, 9-0, 3-0 in Northwest Suburban Conference: the Panthers felt a challenge from Johnsbury in a Northwest Suburban Conference game but showed the Panthers could play a slowdown game in a 51-43 win. Van Thomas, starting in place of injured Scott Hall, scored 12 points.

2. Richmond-Burton, 8-1, 3-1 in Big Eight Conference: the Rockets are enjoying time off until Jan. 5 after beating Burlington Central and winning the Alden-Hebron tournament. In the BEC game, Roger Hauri and Scott Deleskiewicz had 18 each.

3. Libertyville, 7-1, 4-0 in North Suburban Conference: Wildcats took control of first place in the NSC with big wins over Fenton and Niles North.

4. Grayslake: 5-3 overall, 2-2 in NWSC: Rams Coach Greg Groh believes the team received some early Christmas luck in a 60-56 double overtime win at Waukegan Tuesday. Mike Duchane had 20 points, including first two baskets of second OT.

5. Lake Zurich and Stevenson (tie): both 4-3 overall. Lake Zurich stayed even with Round Lake for top spot in NWSC with 68-43 win against Marian Central. Win was Bears fourth straight. Patriots gained revenge over Mundelein with 53-49 win in NSC. Patriots are 3-1 in league play, tied for second place with Fenton behind the Wildcats.

Lancer women's start disappoints Coach Zeman

Going into the 1989-90 basketball season, College of Lake County women's team coach Don Zeman had plenty of reasons to be pleased.

After all, all of his players had four years of varsity experience. And the roster was deep enough so that full five-on-five practices could be expected.

"I'm disappointed. Other than the first three games, we have not played to our potential," Zeman said after the Lancers dropped a 55-45 decision at the College of DuPage Saturday afternoon.

The women's team gave the Lady Chaps a battle as it cut a 20-point deficit in half in the second 20 minutes.

But the poor shooting which has plagued the team of late came back to haunt them. CLC, 1-6, fell behind 50-28 on a basket by DuPage's Kori Konoph, who led the winners with 21 points.

CLC finished the game making only 20 of 66 shots from the field and missed 13 of 17 free throw tries.

After the 22-point lead, CLC used an effective pressing defense which paced them to a 13-6 run. Teri Huntington, who had 15 points to lead the Lancers, started the run with a baseline jumper. Fast-break baskets by Kelly Gust accounted for much of the and Susan Spiller and a three-pointer by Spiller

"We had enough opportunities to make a difference," Zeman said. run. When Spiller hit a bucket with 4:56 left, DuPage had to call a timeout.

CHS seeks consistency

Sometimes, playing a team a notch or two above will help a basketball team further down the road.

That's what the Carmel Corsairs are hoping after falling to below .500 with a 69-52 home loss against might St. Joseph.

"We found out we can pressure a good team and be fairly successful at it. We also found the kids never quit," Carmel Coach Scott Rosberg said.

St. Joseph, winners of seven of eight games, pulled away in the second half.

"They have so many different weapons," Rosberg said.

The visitors led 19-12 after one and never trailed.

As for Carmel, the squad opened the ESCC schedule with three difficult foes - St. Joe, St. Patrick and Marist.

"We have to be more consistent," Rosberg said of the remainder of the season.

How to fight frigid feet

Low temperatures, such as those on ski trails, invariably produce complaints about cold feet. But complainers sometimes have themselves to blame as much as mercury at the bottom of the bulb.

A common cause of cold feet is tossing boots into a cold car trunk. Your feet are bound to get cold when you put them into what amounts to two portable refrigerators. Quickly rewarming the boots doesn't solve the problem either, because it causes moisture to condense in the boots, and damp boots are invariably cold boots.

Dampness can be a cold-foot culprit in several other ways, too.

Never wear socks while driving to an area; socks compress and lose their insulating value. The car heater probably blasts directly against your feet, making them perspire and the socks will pick up salt from the perspiration, drawing out even more moisture.

Bring several pairs of socks and change when your feet feel damp. Socks should be washed in a detergent that doesn't contain fabric softener, which apparently has much the same effect as salt in picking up moisture.

Chairlift riding is another underestimated source of cold feet. Alternately tensing and relaxing muscles makes them act as a secondary pump for the blood will increase circulation.

Rotarians deliver 42 Christmas baskets

Forty-two Antioch and Lake Villa Twp. needy families and senior citizens received baskets full of food and a clothing gift certificate Saturday from the Rotary Club.

According to Rotarian Dave Erickson, 12 members of the Rotary Club and one volunteer delivered the baskets stuffed with a turkey and all the trimmings as well as a clothing gift certificate for the Antioch Thrift Shop.

Erickson said the Rotary Club uses proceeds from their annual Pork Chop Dinner and Auction to cover the cost of the baskets and food. Baskets are delivered not only at Christmas, but at Thanksgiving as well.

In return for a donation to the Antioch Mental Health

Assn., the Antioch Thrift Shop, run by that association, gives clothing gift certificates for the baskets.

The Antioch Piggly Wiggly, managed by Jean Weber, also donates some food and the help of store employees to prepare the baskets.
